Washington, Nov. 30.—The projected World Economic Conference was considered to-day at two protracted official meetings—one at the State Department and the other at the White House. It is understood that the war debt issue was not discussed.—Reuter.

CALL OF THE WEST

BY R. G. MONTGOMERY

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Peace seemed to have descended upon Three Rivers camp and the slopes of Folly Mountain. Men trailed in and out of camp with rifles ready but the zest of the hunt was gone. All of them agreed that Stan Ball must have slipped through their lines and made his escape. Swergin sent out a sheet of telegrams to sheriffs in the surrounding countries giving a description of Ball and posting rewards for his capture dead or alive.

Dona seemed quieter and stayed close to camp. She was beginning to feel the old dread of marrying Dudley. He either sensed this or had some plan of his own on foot for he did not urge her and two days passed uneventfully.

Asper delayed their return to the city. He rode every day but did not go far because of a weakness that set in when he exerted himself. The doctor told him that he was reaping the reward for his reckless conduct while the wound was still in bad shape. Asper grunted and showed the medic his office door, so that after that he was free from the bother of daily examinations.

Dudley rode daily into the hills. He, alone, insisted that Ball would not leave Folly Mountain, that he was still in hiding there. He argued this with Swergin and the timber boss always wound up by saying, "He's gone but any day may see him back."

Dona smiled at these discussions. She knew Stan Ball was miles away from Three Rivers for he had given her his promise.

Asper came in one day, stumping up on the porch where Dona was sunning herself. He stood towering above her with a frown on his face.

"Why don't you take a ride? That roan will be plumb spoiled, standing around eating the extra oats Malloy feeds him." There was real concern in Asper's voice. There was another matter he wanted to ask Dona about but he could not bring himself to the point of putting it into words. He was worried because he feared Dona and Dudley had had a quarrel. He could not understand Dudley's riding out alone every day and leaving his wife.

Dona smiled up at her father. "I'm just resting, Dad." She knew her father wanted to ask why she didn't ride with Dudley.

"Dudley rides a lot," he suggested shortly.

"Dud and I had an argument about riding when we first came here," Dona smiled. "I rode off and left him a couple of times, you remember." There was a mischievous light in her eyes.

Asper smiled grimly. "Just the same he's a cool one for a new husband."

"Dudley is going to be all right," Dona assured him. In her heart she knew that Dudley was going to be the typical society husband. Now that he was sure he could force her to marry him at any hour he wanted, he was in no hurry.

Asper shook his head. Suddenly he bent and raised the girl's chin so that he could look straight into her eyes. "Remember, D, this family has never gone for these new-fangled wrinkles. Your Mother and I never allowed we'd have a divorce in the family." He was so serious that Dona laughed outright.

"With me it's for keeps," she smiled. Jumping up, she slipped her slender arms around her father's neck and hugged him. She wanted to let herself go and sob in his arms but pride kept her from it.

Asper patted her arms with rough tenderness. "You come to your old Dad when you get glum. I've plenty of time to ride with you." He held her away at arm's length. "Everything is fixed ready for our trip down out of this country. We'll start to-morrow night so as to miss the heat in the desert."

"I'll be all packed and ready to go," Dona promised.

A few minutes later Dudley appeared. He had been poking around the corral. Dona met him with a smile and he patted her hand absently, then went to his room. When he returned she told him they were to leave the next night. Dudley did not seem particularly enthusiastic.

"Sure, I can get ready," he grunted.

"This afternoon I'm going to ride with you as a last goodbye to Folly Mountain," Dona was suddenly eager to go out again over the trails where she had met such exciting adventures but a few days past.

Dudley lighted a cigarette and puffed at it before he spoke. "How about going at one?"

"Fine. I'll be ready and we'll take a real ride!" Dona patted his arm playfully.

That afternoon they rode into the high country. Dudley cautioned her to be careful and to let him lead the way. He insisted that Ball was still lying low and waiting to finish the job he had started. Dona only laughed at that.

"This is my last ride, Dad, and I want to go the way I like best. I want to ride up the Pass Creek trail clear to the rim," she smiled eagerly across at him.

Dudley was suddenly willing to let her have her way and they cantered along at a brisk rate. The roan was so full of life that Dona had to keep pulling him in to make his pace fit that of Dudley's horse.

Dona had a plan in the back of her head but she did not tell Dudley about it. She wanted to visit the cave high under the rim of the mountain. It was not a trip for anything she expected to find there but she had a longing for one last look inside the place.

So she led Dudley up the mountain and along the rim. At the slash in the rim rock where the hidden entrance began she halted and looked back at Dudley.

"I am about to take you into a bandit's cave," she called.

Dudley looked worried and adjusted his holster carefully. "Do you think we ought to go poking in there?" he asked doubtfully.

"Ball is a thousand miles from here," Dona laughed and headed the roan into the tangle of brush that hid the entrance. Dudley crowded close upon her heels and they soon emerged on the

MOONLIGHT, a picturesque mountain camp, a pretty girl and a dashing cowboy. With such romantic elements of course there's a love story in "Call of the West" by R. G. Montgomery. There's adventure and excitement too in this thrilling new serial.

LONDON IN THE THICK OF A MID-DAY PEASOUPER

Looking up Ludgate Circus at mid-day one day last month, when the first of the season's fogs descended.

Mr. J. P. Morgan poses for the photographer during his visit to England. The picture shows him leaving a church at Milford.

When federal marshals closed and padlocked a former speakeasy in Newark, N.J., they unwittingly imprisoned an old habitue of the place—a big cat which had hidden oft during the closing ceremony. Tabby made known its plight by promenade in the window, as shown here until pasted by U. S. authorities. Finally, from Trenton, 40 miles away, came a marshal with a key, and Tabby came out—for repeal.

The final round of the Mixed Fourcrosse at Worpleton ended in an easy win for Miss Joyce Wethered (seen driving) and R. H. Oppenheimer over Miss Audrey Regan and Commander J. R. Johnston.—(Times copyright).

October 24, 12 noon, in Piccadilly Circus. All the street lights had to be illuminated and cars crawled through the streets, conditions being worse for traffic than had it been midnight in normal conditions.

WHAT IS IN A NAME?

A hat without the maker's name is like an unsigned picture. The maker's name, mind you—not just a name. "Lincoln Bennett" in a hat is the name of the actual makers, of those who, for more than a century, have designed and fashioned hats to fit all heads—all types—all occasions. Hats to be proud of—mighty good hats. The Best British Make.

The name of his hatter does matter to a man, for wherever he leaves his hat the name is seen. Therefore let it be a good name and a British one.

CHINESE INVOICES

ADVICE TO MERCHANTS ON PROCEDURE

In an interview with Press representatives yesterday, Mr. Y. H. Wen, who has been appointed by the Nanking Government to be Chinese Invoice Officer for Hongkong under the new arrangements which call for the certifying of all invoices of goods destined for China, gave details of procedure which are here published for general information.

Mr. Wen is a native of Taishan, Kwangtung province, but spent his early years in North China. In fact, he has travelled widely in China, except in the South. In 1904 Mr. Wen went to the U.S.A. to complete his military education at the famous academy at West Point and subsequently saw military service in China both before and after the Revolution. He has also held the office of President of the Ching Hwa College, Peking, and was later Chief of Police in Harbin, followed by a term of office as Chief of Police in Shanghai, where he was in charge during the troublous days early this year.

The new Chinese Invoice Office is established on the fourth floor of the French Bank Building in Queen's Road Central where, at the time of the Press visit, a crowd of office messengers was clamouring for specimens of the invoice form, a model of which was available for free distribution. There is, however, a shortage of copies of the Regulations, so that it will be convenient to set forth the principal articles here, adding explanatory remarks elicited in conversation with Mr. Wen.

Article I.

From the date of the coming into effect of the present Regulations, all merchandise imported into China, valued at or above two hundred dollars Chinese currency, shall be accompanied by Consular Invoices issued by the Chinese Consulate at or near the port of embarkation; postal parcels and such goods as are admitted duty free by the Chinese Maritime Customs being excepted.

Notes.—As there is no Chinese Consulate in Hongkong, Mr. Wen has been appointed by the Nanking Government, after negotiations in which the British Foreign Office and the Hongkong Government have taken part, with the title of Chinese Invoice Officer. His functions are concerned only with the certifying of invoices. The two hundred dollars Chinese currency is calculated in Customs Gold units, 110 of the latter being the equivalent at the moment. The fees charged by the office will be based on the official rate issued weekly by the Chinese Maritime Customs for the calculation of Customs Gold units. To-day the rate is $9.25 Hongkong currency for five customs gold units. Certified invoices will not be required for rice and other cereals, books and educational material, or any other goods which is admitted to China duty free.

Article III.

The Consul shall verify all the items contained in the invoice as filled in by the merchant, before certification is made. In case the Consul deems it necessary to examine the sales contract, the commercial invoice, or other documents, the merchant shall furnish the same.

Notes.—For 'Consul' in this article read, in the case of Hongkong, 'Chinese Invoice Officer'. Mr. Wen stated that in practice it would not be necessary for merchants to produce any supporting documents—only when his office questioned the accuracy of the invoice. He added that at first he would have some difficulty in verifying the particulars given, until he became familiar with prevailing prices. In any case, the Chinese Maritime Customs, with their vast experience, would see that goods under-declared in value were not admitted into China without paying the proper rate of duty.

Article IV.

Each set of the Invoice forms shall consist of three copies, one original in white, and two duplicates in yellow.

Article V.

The fee for the certification of a set of the forms shall be five Chinese Customs Gold Units and shall be collected at the time of certification.

Notes.—Mr. Wen explained that unless he received instructions to the contrary from Nanking he proposes to charge the fee at the time of issue of the blank set of forms. The reason for this is that the set of forms which he has received from Nanking is serially numbered and he has to account for every one. If he issues blanks in quantities to firms, and weeks or months elapse before they are all used up, his records will be come full of gaps representing forms unaccounted for.

If a set of forms is inadvertently spoiled, it will be replaced free of charge on being handed back to the Chinese Invoice Office. If the particulars required to be entered are too long to be shown on the space provided in the form, the merchant should attach a continuation sheet of the same size as the form and also in triplicate, repeating the same serial number as appears on sheet 1, and both the first sheet and the continuation sheet will be certified without extra charge. If a transaction is expressed in a foreign currency, the total of the invoice should be converted into Hongkong currency.

Article VII.

Merchandise sold to two or more different importing firms, or carried by two or more different vessels, or destined for two or more different ports, shall not be covered by the same invoice.

Note.—This seems to require no further explanation, except to say that there is no necessity to make out a different invoice for each article when sending several different commodities to one consignee.

Article VIII.

Upon the arrival of the merchandise at destination the consignee shall present the original copy of the invoice to the Chinese Maritime Customs together with other Customs papers for examination.

Notes.—The principal comment to be made here is that the exporter must be careful to enclose the certified invoice with the documents forwarded to the consignee. The duplicates of the certified invoice are both retained by the Chinese Invoice Office: one is his file copy and the other is forwarded to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs at the end of each month in order that a check may be taken with the original which is collected by the Chinese Maritime Customs.

General.

Mr. Wen said the instructions stated that merchants should submit invoices to the nearest office to the port of embarkation. Under this instruction he would be willing to certify any invoices forwarded to him by merchants in Macao where there is no Chinese Consul. He understood that it sometimes happened that merchants in Hongkong gave instructions for cargo to be moved from neighbouring countries into China. He would also issue a certificate in these cases, unless, of course, there was a Chinese Consul in that country.

Mr. Wen was asked what would be the procedure if part of a cargo which he had certified was short-shipped, so that the invoice showed a greater quantity of goods than actually reached destination. He replied that in practice he thought no difficulty would arise as the Chinese Maritime Customs would deal with the matter at destination.

Asked if he had any idea as to the number of requests for certified invoices that he would receive daily, Mr. Wen said it was difficult to say, but he expected about 100 daily. After all, a substantial percentage of Hongkong export trade was to countries other than China, although, admittedly, the bulk of the exports went to China. If it was found that a provision made was inadequate, a larger staff would be engaged in order to give prompt service.

CONSUL LEAVING.

ITALIAN REPRESENTATIVE GOING TO MUKDEN

Capt. R. Ferrajolo, who has been in Hongkong for the last eighteen months in the capacity of Italian Consul General, will be leaving the Colony on the 5th. instant.

Capt. Ferrajolo arrived in Hongkong after having spent 13 years in the Far East, always attached to the Italian Diplomatic Service; in Shanghai, Harbin, Peking, Hankow and Mukden. Previous to his entering the diplomatic service he performed brilliantly during the war.

His cheerful disposition and sincerity have made him a friend to all who had the pleasure of meeting him, and his tactfulness joined with his generosity and ability, will be long remembered by those who have had the privilege of making his acquaintance. The departure of both Capt. and Mrs. Ferrajolo will be a deeply felt loss to the Italian Colony of Hongkong, who had for them not only a sense of respect but a feeling of true friendship.

Capt. Ferrajolo is transferred to his old post in Mukden, and it is owing to his great knowledge of that particular country that the decision was arrived at that he is probably the only man in China of his nationality actually capable of fulfilling such a delicate position.

Mrs. Ferrajolo will also be remembered here for her delightful talent as a singer.

GERMAN CABINET.

GEN. VON SCHLEICHER HOPING TO RECONCILE PARTIES

London, Nov. 30.

It is reported from Berlin that, contrary to earlier reports, Gen. Von Schleicher is still sounding the party leaders, and expects to meet Herr Hitler and try to persuade him at least to 'tolerate' a cabinet under the General's leadership.

This move, however, is expected to prove abortive, whereupon Von Schleicher will renounce the task of trying to obtain a political truce with the parties, thus leaving Von Papen to carry on in the face of furious hostility from all sides.—Our Own Correspondent.

The Hongkong Telegraph

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1932.

IS JAPAN INDICTED?

The London Daily Telegraph is evidently very anxious that no impression shall get abroad that the British Government regards the Lytton Report as an indictment of Japan's actions in Manchuria. With the issue still before the League, it is quite right and proper that Britain and all the other Powers should suspend judgment. None the less, it is difficult for the layman to reach any other conclusion than that Lord Lytton and his colleagues have definitely found Japan to be in the wrong. Of the initial operations in September of last year it is recorded that they "cannot be regarded as measures of legitimate self-defence." Then the Report undoubtedly treats "Manchukuo" as the sham which it is, calls for its abolition, and stresses the restoration of Chinese sovereignty as one of the fundamental conditions of any settlement. But an even stronger indictment is implied in the remarks contained in the Report to the effect that Japan, without declaration of war, has forcibly seized a large area of indisputably Chinese territory. It is, we are aware, argued by Japan that everything she has done in Manchuria has been in legitimate self-defence, and that her actions are not inconsistent with the League Covenant, the Kellogg Pact, or the Nine-Power Treaty. But these contentions do not bear close analysis. The League Covenant makes specific provision for arbitral adjudication on disputes, whereas Japan has seen fit to use force. The Kellogg Pact is based on a recognition of the principle of pacific adjustment. The Nine-Power Treaty definitely, in its very first article, safeguards the territorial and administrative integrity of China, and, what is more, calls for consultation between the signatories. Yet Japan has preferred to act on her own initiative. To Japan's argument that her special interests in Manchuria are vital to her, the answer is that the Report recognises the existence of these interests and suggests a method of satisfying them. But no supporter of the League can admit that Japan should proceed in violation of the peace machinery of the world. The Daily Telegraph suggests that British policy is to proceed in collaboration with the other Powers, and, above all, "in good faith and friendship with the United States." Seeing that American opinion is intensely critical of Japan's whole policy in Manchuria, what are we to make of the quoted words?

Gutter Brand Cigarettes

The industrious scavenger who apparently has been making a living by producing cigarettes from discarded ends picked up in the street gutters was rightly absolved from legal penalty in the Police Court yesterday. Life would not not be safe for anyone if Ordinances could be stretched in all directions to meet special cases. At the same time, the facts brought out suggest that the occupation of this particular man, and apparently of many others in the Gutzlaff Street district, required official action. We cannot imagine any better medium for the spreading of tuberculosis and other germ diseases than cigarettes produced under the conditions described, and while the smokers are probably perfectly aware of the source of origin, they should be protected from themselves. Incidentally, this is not a new local "industry" by any means. Some years ago, the B.A.T. brought prosecutions against manufacturers of Gutter Brand cigarettes, who rendered themselves liable by also collecting B.A.T. containers and selling their wares under well-known labels. The man in court yesterday did not go quite as far as this, but the danger to the community is, we suggest, worthy of greater consideration than the infringement of a wealthy firm's trade mark.

Personal Liberty

The problems connected with the pursuit of liberty are intricate and always with us. Among such problems perhaps none is more difficult than that of finding out what constitutes freedom. Liberty, intellectual as well as political, must not be confused with license. To avoid such confusion, the individual must enter into the pursuit of knowledge not only of the sort to be gained in school but that also which is implied in the command, "Know thyself." Many persons enjoying a maximum of freedom—political, economic and social—will agree that there is yet a deeper form of liberty, and that only as one is in possession of intellectual and moral freedom can he make the best use of the other forms. To intellectual freedom the schools have much to contribute. But the assertion of moral freedom is in the hands of the individual. It is becoming clear that moral liberty is the corner stone upon which rests all true liberty, both national and personal. Such freedom may, perhaps, be likened to a magnificent building. Its structure appears as a multiplicity of ideas which may best find effective expression, free and distinct, in contributing to the strength and beauty of the whole. Thoughtful people now recognize that freedom is something other than merely doing whatever one likes. Those who are intelligently working for its wider establishment know well the need of critical excursions among their own desires and actions. They know that only by freeing themselves from greed, from appetite, from willfulness, can they gain that self-government which is the foundation of free government, and which guarantees liberty to their neighbours as well as to themselves.

Clemenceau Museum

Paris has added yet one more to its long list of museums. The little flat on the ground floor of a house in the Rue Franklin, where Clemenceau lived, has just been opened to the public. His bedroom, which was also his workroom, contains a bed without a mattress—for the "Tiger" always slept on boards—and a work table with the manuscript of the last page of his book, "Grandeurs et Miseres de la Victoire," kept in place by the quill that he used. In the dining room, on a table, there are three large rusty keys which had been given to Clemenceau. They are the keys of the Bastille. The famous skull cap still hangs on a hook in the tiny hall, and several of Claude Monet's paintings adorn the walls of the apartment. Behind, in a little garden, a few small rose bushes provide the flowers that Clemenceau loved so well.

THESE MASSIVE MODERN BRAINS

By ROBERT LYND

It always surprises me when people who love animals set out earnestly to prove that the animals they love can think.

An eminent man of science delivered an address the other day in which he denied that animals are capable of thinking; and immediately everybody who owned a cat or a dog or a pet lamb became vehemently indignant, as though an insult had been offered to the darlings of the animal world.

I do not see why it should be considered that one shows greater respect for cats by saying that they can think than by saying that they cannot. It is not disrespectful to cats to say that they cannot play the piano, and thinking is no more a cat's job than playing the piano. If cats could think they would cease to be able to purr. You never hear a philosopher purring.

THE BELL PULLERS OF WELLS.

There are, of course, all kinds of stories about animals that suggest that they possess some kind of intelligence. The guide-books tell us, for example, that the swans in the moat that surrounds the Bishop's Palace at Wells pull a bell by the side of the moat when they want to be fed.

I have never seen a swan doing this, and I fancy that when I was last in Wells the bell was broken. I am willing, however, to believe that the tradition is true, while remaining unconvinced that the swan is a highly intellectual bird. After all, if you met a human being who was in the habit of ringing a bell when he wanted food and who showed no other sign of intelligence, you would regard him almost as an imbecile.

At the same time, it is hard not to believe that some animals are more intelligent than others—that a dog, for instance, is more intelligent than a processionary caterpillar. Even so, I must confess that I have never met a really intelligent animal. Except, perhaps, a cat called Peter. I do not know why I thought he was intelligent. Probably it was because he looked intelligent, and I was greatly attached to him. But even he, the most intelligent animal I have known, had not enough brains to understand when he was told that it was wrong to kill birds.

I made my objections to his killing birds perfectly clear to him, but whether or not it was that he regarded this as inconsistent coming as it did from a human being who frequently dined on chicken, he never paid the slightest heed to me. Vegetarians may see in this a proof of the cat's intelligence.

Such intelligence as animals show, however, is of an essentially different kind from the intelligence of human beings. Some animals are intelligent enough to be able to learn to perform tricks, but they are not intelligent enough to invent tricks for themselves—or, at least, to invent new games for every new generation. The untrained animal plays the same games as its ancestors have played for generations, and the same games will be played by its descendants a thousand years hence. It requires the massive brain of a human being to invent such games as Tiddleywinks.

The chief evidence for the intelligence of human beings lies in the fact that, unlike the other animals, they are constantly changing everything that they find it possible to change. The lion is dressed to-day as lions were dressed in the days of Julius Caesar; but in the same space of time human beings have changed the fashions of their clothes almost as often as spring has come round.

The Englishman, once painted with wood, developed into that mighty-brained being whom you will see dancing round and round in tails and a white waistcoat, for the Englishwoman, the most highly intelligent being yet created, she changes the fashions of her dress more quickly than the intelligence of man can follow her.

It may be argued that all the animals except man were born perfect in the beginning—that the first chaffinch, for example, was perfectly clothed, and knew how to build a perfect house for itself—and that therefore they showed their intelligence by not changing.

TIGERS CAN'T MAKE BOMBS.

I deny, however, that animals were created perfect. Take the tiger, for instance, who still fights with his teeth and claws. These were perfectly efficient weapons before his enemy, man, had learned to arm himself. They are hopelessly out of date, however, against powder and bullets. Yet the tiger has not had the brains to devise new ways of defeating a brainy two-legged animal who is physically greatly his inferior.

Much as I like animals, indeed, I can see no evidence that they are much good at thinking. If wild animals could think, they would be much wiser in their treatment of human beings. The lions and the tigers and the elephants would unite in a war on the frail biped who persecute them.

No lion or elephant has yet invented a bomb. Human beings may not have much brains, but, at least, they had enough brains to do that.

A THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY

SPORTS AND GAMING, WHETHER PURSUED FROM A DESIRE OF GAIN OR LOVE OF PLEASURE, ARE AS RUINOUS TO THE TEMPER AND DISPOSITION OF THE PARTY ADDICTED TO THEM, AS THEY ARE TO HIS FAME AND FORTUNE.—Burton.

"Good morning, madam! Do you find yourself wondering how to put your spare time to gainful use?"

The Very Idea!

S.W.B.'s in B.V.D.'s

By Edward (Paton) Kelly.

New uniform and equipment, which, if finally adopted, will considerably alter the appearance of the British Army, was officially shown for the first time in London this week.

A striking feature of the display, we learn, was a light waterproof hat, of the deer stalking pattern, which can be folded into the pocket.

We understand that the decision regarding this type of hat was made only after considerable discussion by the War Council.

The idea of a deer stalking hat is, of course for the Army, self-explanatory.

Thus, in Peace-time, every man can lay down the arms of War for the arms of the girl friend.

Pending further information, no decision has been made yet regarding trousers.

It is stated unofficially that the S.W.B.'s will be confined to barracks while the authorities are taking down their particulars.

Although open-necked shirts have been finally decided upon, we are sorry the War Council did not go further than this.

Something that would strike a more original—more daring—note was required.

For instance, we had every hope of admiring the handsome curves of Tommy Atkins in Kayser wraps.

And it is a positive shame to let him go out on a route march without a set of Lustre underwear. Then we'd like to see the Q.M.S. of one of the local regiments, posing in the very latest things in corsets.

Or the Sarge Major, looking for all the world like a stocking advertisement.

No regimental Colonel would be le dernier cri unless he has That Schoolgirl Complexion, or The Skin You Love to Touch.

Really, if the British Army is to be anything at all, this scheme will have to receive full consideration before it is adopted.

"PITHEY"

So that old Pithecanthropus what's-her-name was a female after all.

We knew it all along. "You can kill yourself with kindness. You can souse yourself with ale. But the female of the species is more deadly than the male."

What proved the thing conclusive was the size of the lower jaw.

THE SAHIB.

The University examinations remind us, so don't be unkind.

"A Sahib is an important Indian who has been to a public school, but if he is a Pukka Sahib he is not an Indian at all but a Sahib. If he is not a Pukka Sahib he has not been to a public school."

"Mulligatawny was an Irishman who invented soup. He was what they call a broth of a boy."

"The Marathon race is named after the battle of Marathon, between the Greeks and Romans. The Greeks ran so fast they were back in Athens in no time, and the one that got there first was acclaimed the victor."

"The Inquisition was a rather strict tribunal. It burnt you if you told the truth and sent you to the stake if you didn't. This was called a Dilemma."

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Daisy (Kowloon).—Yes (we mean No). It's not too early to be thinking about your Christmas presents. Begin by making out two lists—the second for use if you lose the first—and, for obvious reasons, keep them in different places! You have a good foundation to build on in the "gifts" sent you last year. May's "mules," for example, will do nicely for Janet, and Cousin George's imitation fruit is just the thing for May. Be sure that labels, inscriptions, etc., are carefully removed.

BANKS.

We have just had a letter from our Bank Manager.

It begins as all letters from our Bank Manager begin: "Dear Sir, I beg to draw your attention to the fact . . ."

And yet some people are worried by the fact that Mr. Montagu Norman travels incognito.

We are glad he does. The last thing we want is bank directors thrusting themselves upon our notice.

If all the washing machines in the Colony were placed end to end, a woman would still select a radio.

SPAIN'S MILITARY POLICY

REPUBLIC LOOKS TO ITS ARMS

CHANGE OF FRONT

Much conjecture is being expressed in Spain as to the rather sudden interest in military development being shown by the Government.

After cutting down the establishment to a minimum to avoid useless expense, the War Department has decided that the soldiers are to have steel helmets. The most modern equipment has been purchased, and on the eve of important military manoeuvres, the Prime Minister has declared that Spain might very well become involved in war and must be prepared for it.

This is the more significant as the Constitution expressly renounces war as an instrument of policy, and the Socialist party, which has three Ministers in the Government, desires still further reductions in the Army.

That the possible enemy is not France is evident. The entire between the two countries becomes ever closer, and is fostered by the similarity of their social and political ideals. France is said to be anxious for concessions in Tangiers and even to envisage the purchase from Spain of her West African colony, Rio de Oro, in exchange for economic concessions.

But, in addition to mutual economic and political benefits, many observers credit the entire with clearing the ground for joint military action in case of certain eventualities; and the forthcoming visit of the French Premier to Madrid is thought to be connected with this object.

The tension between France and Italy has frequently been commented on in the Spanish Press, the organs supporting the Government showing a preference for France. The young Republic, still fearful of a return to monarchy, looks askance at the dictatorship of the Duce, and naturally sympathises with democratic France. Criticism of Signor Mussolini has gone to such lengths that the Heraldo de Madrid is no longer allowed to be sold in Italy.

A victory of Italy over France would dishearten the Republic as being a victory of Monarchy over Republicanism, in just the same way as a return to a monarchical system in Germany would be looked upon as an indirect criticism of the Constitution in Spain; and it is not impossible that Spain would consent to support France against her south-eastern neighbour in exchange for economic benefits.

In any case, the new military tendency in Spain should be attentively followed, owing to her strategic position.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY PREVENTED

TWO YOUNG MEN SENT TO GAOL

Two young Chinese were each sentenced to six months' hard labour by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court this morning when charges of possession of a packet of pepper and an instrument fit for an unlawful purpose, and of loitering in Glenealy with intent to commit a felony, were brought against them by Detective Sergeant D. Fitches.

According to the police officer, special patrols were being carried out by Chinese detectives on the hill roads, owing to the recent frequent highway robberies, and on the afternoon of Monday last a detective, who was on duty in Glenealy dressed in coolie clothing, saw the two defendants playing cards by themselves, and searched them. He suddenly noticed a packet on the ground and found that it contained pepper.

When questioned, both defendants admitted possession of the pepper and took the police to the shop where it had been purchased. They admitted that they had intended to commit a highway robbery and were awaiting the arrival of a third man.

The maximum sentence of three months' hard labour was imposed on each charge, both defendants having been in the hands of the police on previous occasions.

BURGLARS STEAL CROCKERY

ONE MAN SENT TO PRISON

A huge quantity of crockery, stored in a godown at 7, Chi On Lane, was stolen by burglars during Tuesday or Wednesday night when intruders gained admittance by forcing the hinges from the door. Altogether 350 pieces were removed, but of these the majority were thrown down the stairs when the thieves found that the entire haul could not be conveniently removed.

One man, who was found in possession of 25 pieces, was brought before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court this morning and charged by Detective Sergeant D. Fitches with burglary. On admitting the offence he was sentenced to four months' hard labour.

It was stated that the greater part of the crockery was smashed.

BRITISH STOCKS FIRMER

SHARP RECOVERY IN LOANS

London, Nov. 30.

The stock markets to-day presented a generally firm appearance. There was a good investment demand for gilt-edged securities. Government loans registered a further sharp recovery and finished with advances of nearly two pounds. War Loan Assented was finally quoted at 97 1/2.

In the foreign exchange market, sterling displayed an uncertain tendency at the outset, the opening rate on New York being quoted at 3.16 1/2. Later it rose sharply to 3.20 1/2 and closed at 3.19 1/2.—British Wireless.

As from to-day, the S. C. M. Post and the Hongkong Telegraph will be on sale daily at the Tobacco Department of the Sincere Company.

Dr. Chun Wing-tait, a graduate of Harvard University and the Secretary and Professor on Culture to the Ling Nam University, will give the first of three lectures at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. to-morrow at 8 p.m. The talk will be on "Family Revolution."

The Chairman and members of the Executive Committee of the Hongkong Society for the Protection of Children gratefully acknowledge the receipt of $5,000 from the Directors of the Tung Wah Hospital, being a part of the proceeds of the performances by the Yan San Nin Theatrical Company at the Ko Shing Theatre.

THE ACTION OF RADIUM

EFFECT ON CANCER CELLS

The use of radium as curative agent in cancer necessitates a careful study of its exact mode of action. Many theories hold the field, but important scientific work reported in the tenth scientific report of the investigations of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund, indicates that these will have to be modified. Dr. W. Cramer shows there conclusively that the effect of radium is purely local, there being no general effect on the body as a whole. This means that the problem of using radium is very much the same as the problem of using surgery in cancer, the local destruction of a growth.

Previously it was held by some workers that after using radiation the body developed certain increased resistance to cancer and that this induced immunity was, in fact, responsible for the good effects produced. Dr. Cramer shows in his exact analysis that this is not the case. Radium acts locally on cancer cells and also on the surrounding cells of the normal tissues forming the barrier between the growth and the rest of the body. Both undergo a certain amount of destruction, but in the case of the barrier cells a process of repair sets in and the combination of this repair and the destruction of the cancer cells is the main factor in establishing a cure.

Complex Experiments.

According to Dr. Cramer's work it is not necessary for every malignant cell to be destroyed, a point of some importance in the question of the dosage of radium to be used. He writes "that the dosage should be as such as to produce a maximal injury limited to the tumour as a whole and consistent with an active reaction of repair and with the integrity of the normal epithelial tissues, which play no part in this reaction of repair." That is to say the radiation must not be allowed to damage the normal tissues around the tumour, for, as shown in another paper in the same report, there is no essential difference in vulnerability between tumour tissue and normal tissue.

Mr. H. G. Crabtree, who reaches this conclusion, bases his findings upon a series of complex chemical experiments designed to study the exact effects produced by radium upon the chemistry of living tissue. He shows how tissues, whether those of cancer or of the normal parts of the body, under the influence of irradiation, gradually lose their power of using oxygen. In other words, the individual cells become slowly asphyxiated and the process of degeneration which ensues is very much the same, only at a quicker rate, as that which occurs during the natural death of living matter. This work shows that from the chemical aspect cancer cells do not differ greatly in their reaction to radium from normal cells, hence the necessity for careful substance. The theory of selective action upon cancer cells is not supported by these researches.

DOG DEFENDER OF FARM

STABBED BY A BURGLAR

Here is the story of Rosie, the sheepdog defender of Coldlands Farm, in Horley.

A burglar took a ladder from the garage, climbed the house by forcing a window.

The owners, Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, were in London with their manservant, and the house was empty except for Rosie, a splendid Old English sheepdog, with a great white and grey head, the usual shaggy coat, and a most kindly manner.

Rosie went to attack the burglar, and whatever may have happened to him she herself was stabbed in the neck.

"When we came home in the car at 7 I knew at once that something was wrong," said Mrs. Davis. "There was no great bark of welcome, and no pawing of the door from inside."

"I rushed through the rooms with my husband, and in the little lobby opening off the hall I found Rosie lying on the floor."

"She gave a little moan when she saw me and tried to get up. Her paws were covered with blood, and there was a gash in her neck."

RINGS STOLEN.

"When the police, whom we called, came a few minutes later they found that all my rings had been taken from my dressing-table in the bedroom."

"We carried Rosie out to the car and motored her to a veterinary surgeon, who dressed and bandaged the wound, which he said was caused by a knife or other sharp instrument.

"Rosie is quickly getting better, but though she has moved about the house she has refused to enter the room where the burglar forced the window. That is evidently where a struggle took place."

Just then a visitor came up the garden path. Rosie was on her feet at once.

She advanced to the front door, while menacing deep growls came from her throat.

Rosie was on duty again.

INDIANS PACK THEIR GOAL

MAMAK DEFEAT BY R.A.S.C.

The K.I.T.C. were lucky not to be beaten by more than three goals to nil when they met the R.A.S.C. at Sookunpoo yesterday in the Mamak tournament.

The Army men were continually on the offensive and throughout the Indians were forced to pack their goal. Nevertheless, they showed greatly improved form and their resistance to the onslaughts levelled at their goal was very stubborn.

The teams crossed over with the Service Corps leading by one goal to nil, scored by Barlow. In the second half they added two more one of which was netted by Bonior.

RUGBY CHAMPIONSHIP

Sensational Defeat Of Kent

London, Nov. 30.
Two matches were played to-day in the South Eastern group Rugby Championships. Eastern Counties defeated Surrey by 17 points to three, and Middlesex gained a sensational victory over Kent scoring 34 points against six. —Reuter.

SUPERB DIVING DISPLAY

"DUTCH" SMITH & SIMAIKA

HUGE C.B.C. CROWD ENTERTAINED

Giving their second display of fancy diving in Hongkong, the Olympic divers, "Dutch" Smith and Faria Simaika, last night entertained a huge crowd at the Chinese Bathing Club.

Earlier in the day the two men visited Canton and gave a display before a crowd of 5,000 at the Canton Swimming Club.

Mr. R. Summeril, manager and coach of the team, introduced the divers at the beginning of the performance. They opened the programme with a running forward swim dive, followed by front jack knife dives.

"Smith's next dive was a layout back somersault, executed perfectly, and was followed by a layout front somersault by Simaika in equally as graceful a manner. The latter followed with a flying somersault. Smith astounded the audience with a standing spring full twist somersault, a difficult dive to do Simaika's forward spring backward dive also won great applause.

Smith's next was a forward spring one and half somersault while a still more difficult one was called the back somersault with half twist by Simaika. The other dives included a double forward somersault opened by Simaika, a running full twist by Smith, a back one and half somersault by Simaika, a forward two and half somersault by Smith, a running forward twist with perfect entry by Simaika, a layout back one and half somersault performed with a rigid position by Simaika.

Smith was greeted with loud applause when he executed a difficult dive which was the latest addition in the Olympic list, called the running forward one and half somersault forward with a full twist. This dive was awarded highest points in the Olympic games.

The enjoyable programme of spectacular diving was concluded with several humorous diving and swimming acts by the champions with Simaika playing the part of a coach and Smith that of a learner in an outsize swimming suit of the last century.

To-night's performance will see the champions doing several novel dives.

LOCAL RUGBY.

The Borderers Defeat H.M.S. Devonshire.

A GOOD GAME.

In a rousing game at Sookunpoo yesterday afternoon, the South Wales Borderers defeated H.M.S. Devonshire at rugby by three points to nil. The teams were very evenly-matched, the Devonshire men doing well to hold the strong military side to such a small margin.

The Devonshire team showed prominently in defence, but the forwards were weak. On the other hand, the military three-quarters played a sound game and only the sterling defence of the sailors prevented them from scoring, although they were very near the line several times.

Half-time came with the score-sheet blank, but after the change-over, Lieut. Martin, the Borderers' skipper, scored after a movement in which all the three-quarters showed up well. The kick failed to add the two extra points.

FANLING HUNT.

To Be Held on Wednesdays and Sundays.

In a previous announcement the days of meeting of the Fanling Hunt were inadvertently stated to be Wednesdays and Saturdays. It should have been stated that subsequent meets will take place on Wednesdays and Sundays, except when a Kwantung Race Meeting is held on a Sunday, in which case Hounds will not meet.

SOCCER AT SHAMEEN.

A.P.C. Eleven Defeat the Rest in Good Game.

SOME OUTSTANDING PLAY.

A soccer game of considerable interest took place at Shameen on Monday last, when an eleven selected from the foreign staff of the A.P.C. met and defeated the rest of Shameen. The A.P.C. were able to place in the field such interlopers as Gerardo of Hongkong fame, Polley of Swatow, Gammell of Samshui and Agnew of Nanking, whilst on the opposing side were others in the persons of Pote-Hunt of Shanghai, Linaker of Fiji and Taylor of Gloucester.

On a hard ground the game opened very fast, and the ball swung to and fro with little to choose between the two sides. Soon the superior combination of the A.P.C. team was manifest, and a furious attack on the Rest's goal ended in Reid netting the leather to open the score. The Rest's custodian, Neckleman, who we hear is an old Copenhagen, was playing a superb game, and some of his full length saves across the goal mouth were loudly applauded by the large crowd present.

At the change over the A.P.C. were one up, but in the second half the better condition of the A.P.C. team began to tell, and the defence of the Rest was penetrated from time to time, resulting in three more goals being added to the A.P.C. score.

For the victors one of the outstanding players were Blechynnen, who carried all before him until a boot intercepted him in the second half and he, in turn, was carried—from the ground. Others were Southam, who being nearest a descending ball, gave a pretty display of head work, and Reid and Howett on the wings, who contributed to the force of the attack.

For the losers, Pote-Hunt supplemented magnificent football by a few choice remarks from time to time. Linaker showed some pretty footwork, reminiscent of Jack Hubert in "Sunshine Busle," and King managed to be everywhere at once.

FRENCH TEAM LOSE TO ARSENAL

Friendly For London's Favourites

London, Nov. 30.
Arsenal, the London football favourites met a team from the Racing Club de France to-day, and won comfortably by three goals to nil, the match being played at Highbury.—Reuter.

"MAC" BIDS FAREWELL

FOOTBALL CLUB PRESENTATION

TO MR. MCTAVISH

The esteem and respect in which Mr. H. M. McTavish, Hon. Secretary of the Hongkong Football Club is held by his fellow sportsmen was evidenced yesterday, when members of the Football Club made a presentation to him and Mrs. McTavish prior to their return Home.

MR. FORSYTH'S TRIBUTE.

Members of the Hongkong Football Club gathered at the club room yesterday evening to bid farewell to Mr. H. M. McTavish, Hon. Secretary of the Club, prior to his departure for England next Saturday.

Mr. H. R. Forsyth, Vice-President of the Club, speaking on behalf of the members said:

Gentlemen: We are here to-night for the purpose of saying farewell to Mr. Hector McTavish, who first became associated with the Club 18 years ago, and whose association ever since has been a very close and valuable one. During the first years he was a very active playing member, and one has only to read the old newspaper files until 1920 to see how invaluable he was to us. "Mac" was an active member until 1920, when he finished up skipping the H.K.F.C. soccer team. An accident ended his active career and he took on the Secretaryship of the Club.

The job of Secretary becomes more onerous with the growth of any association; it is a thankless job and it is very rarely that the amount of work one puts in as Secretary is really appreciated. But in this instance, I think that all will be in agreement with me in saying that "Mac" during his Secretaryship has had the interest of the Club foremost, and has given up his position in a manner highly satisfactory to everyone (Applause).

"Mac" McTavish has decided to try his fortunes at Home, and we are here to-night to let him know that our best wishes go with him and his family in their ventures. I regard it as a privilege to ask on behalf of members, Hector McTavish to accept, this watch, and to accept on behalf of Mrs. McTavish a wristlet watch (Applause).

MR. MCTAVISH REPLIES.

Mr. McTavish, in reply, said: "I thank you all very much indeed for the wonderful presents which I can assure you, I will hold for ever. I need hardly add that it does not require these presents to remind me of the H.K.F.C. I will always remember it as the first Club I joined in this Colony."

"All that I can say is that I am very, very sorry to be leaving the Colony, but I hope that one day I will return."

From the form shown in this friendly game, the A.P.C. team have excellent chance in the league provided they are not called upon to play themselves on behalf of Shameen. A goodly crowd of Chinese watched the game, and amongst prominent foreigners on the touchline were observed Mr. Phillips, H. M. Consul-General, Dr. Wagner, the German Consul-General, Mr. Hill, Chairman of the Municipal Council, and Mr. Ealos, of B. & S.—Contributed.

POLICEMAN IN DOCK.

SEQUEL TO RAID ON SUSPECTED OPIUM DEN

A Chinese constable, P. C. Lau King, was one of two men appearing in the dock in Mr. Schofield's Court yesterday afternoon when they were charged with the possession of contraband opium.

Lau King is charged with having 12 tael of opium and with misconduct, while Wong Chi, alleged keeper of an opium den, is charged in respect of eleven tael.

They were represented respectively by Mr. F. C. E. Rendall and Mr. Peter Sin.

In presenting the Police case, Det. Sgt. Macdonald said that on the morning of November 15, Chief Preventive Officer Buller and a party of Revenue Officers raided 247, Queen's Road Central. In a cubicle on the second floor they found Wong Chi and P. C. Lau King and nine other men, all smoking opium.

Under the direction of C. P. O. Buller, a black lacquered box was opened by Wong Chi and nine tael of opium found inside. Asked where he got it from, he said: "Oh, I got eleven tael from the constable." Therefore, there were two tael missing, and he was told about that. From his pocket he produced a further tael, and from a jacket he brought out the eleventh tael.

Both Wong Chi and the constable were then arrested.

In this case, continued Sgt. Macdonald, there would be two witnesses who would say that on the previous night Lau King was on that same floor between 11 o'clock and midnight. They saw him carry a parcel, and one of them would say that the parcel contained tins resembling tins of opium.

C.P.O. Buller, giving evidence, stated that on being questioned, Wong Chi told him that the opium was priced at $4 per tael. When

HOTEL FUNCTIONS.

AUSTRALIAN SISTERS AT THE PENINSULA

The Australian girl artistes, the sisters Lane and Mario Mays, are delighting audiences nightly at the Peninsula Hotel Rose Room dinner dances. In addition to being talented dancers both possess highly pleasing singing voices, and their contributions of amusing sketches provoke merry laughter and approbation.

On Saturday night these mirth-makers are again giving an entire change of numbers from their extensive repertoire, which appears to contain an unlimited variety of entertaining features.

Repulse Bay Gals.

It is announced that a gala dinner dance will take place at the Repulse Bay Hotel next Saturday, until 1 a.m., at which function Fred Pierce, the versatile American vaudeville artiste, more intimately known as Shanghai's favourite entertainer, will appear at intervals during the evening. Music will be furnished by the "Lincolns" Dance Band, and altogether the arrangements for the occasion promise a most pleasant evening.

charged, he further stated: "The constable could take possession of the opium any time he wanted to. I have not paid money for it." The case was adjourned.

COMPARISON

Mortgage Department, 1930-1931

Year	Amount	Market Value of Property	% Value loaned	Average Interest rate	Average Commission %	Excess Interest over 8%	Amount Commission Earned
1930	10,052,040	$18,662,000	54%	9.18%	1.215%	$118,614	$122,316
1931	19,194,867	34,075,565	56%	9.33%	0.765%	255,291	146,825
						$373,905	$269,141
							373,905

Earned above 8% paid to Debenture holders—$643,046

Of the above mortgages, there was assigned to investors:

1930	$ 6,532,660.00
1931	$13,223,545.00

A lower rate of commission existed in 1931 due to cheap money for the greater part of the year; from September, money commenced to tighten up. As it is we earned 1.33% interest in excess of 8% paid on our Debentures, in addition to $146,825 commissions. From the above it will be seen that our 8% Debentures are secured by first mortgages on 56.4% of value and backed up with $5,000,000 capital.

The following extracts are taken from the Chairman's statement at the last annual Shareholder's Meeting, February 29th, 1932.

"We feel that the Debenture holder from an investment standpoint, is just as much an interested partner of the Company as the Common Shareholder and is entitled to his just return on his investment, and by the figures given on the two years' working, I think we have amply proven that we were right that our Debenture holders receive eight per cent. interest instead of six per cent."

"The most successful concerns of the future will be those who recognize this principle—that even banks will allocate to depositors a part of profits earned on their money over and above current rates of interest. As our balance sheets show quite plainly, the proceeds from the sale of our debentures is not used for the purchase of Real Estate, as we are not speculators, but for investment in first class mortgages, amply secured not only by the value of the property pledged as security, but as a further security, the debentures constitute a first claim on the total assets of the Company. An analysis to the figures involved shows that every debenture has behind it assets equal to three times its value."

"If after careful consideration of actual facts and figures you are receiving less than 8 per cent. upon your investment and or savings, you are not using judgment but following old customs, believing 5 per cent. and 6 per cent. are current rates."

The natural laws of economics require an investor to secure the best return especially upon savings—trust funds—consistent with safety.

The China Realty Company is one of the oldest (established more than 20 years) real estate companies in Shanghai with a steady, successful record back of it.

Capital $5,000,000 fully paid in cash.

Business turnover 1931, $45,632,300 in land and mortgages only, which does not include management of estates, rent collections, insurance written, trustees for beneficial owners of property and sundry sources of income.

The Company are Realtors, not speculators in Real Estates.

The balance sheet as of December 31, 1931 shows:

Assets	$12,341,726.31
Lands and Buildings at cost	3,351,055.84
Cash	1,844,259.11

Mortgages on Real Estates held by

Company Dec. 31, 1931	$5,971,200
-----------------------	-------------

Total Debenture issue Dec. 31, 1931

	4,840,700
--	-----------

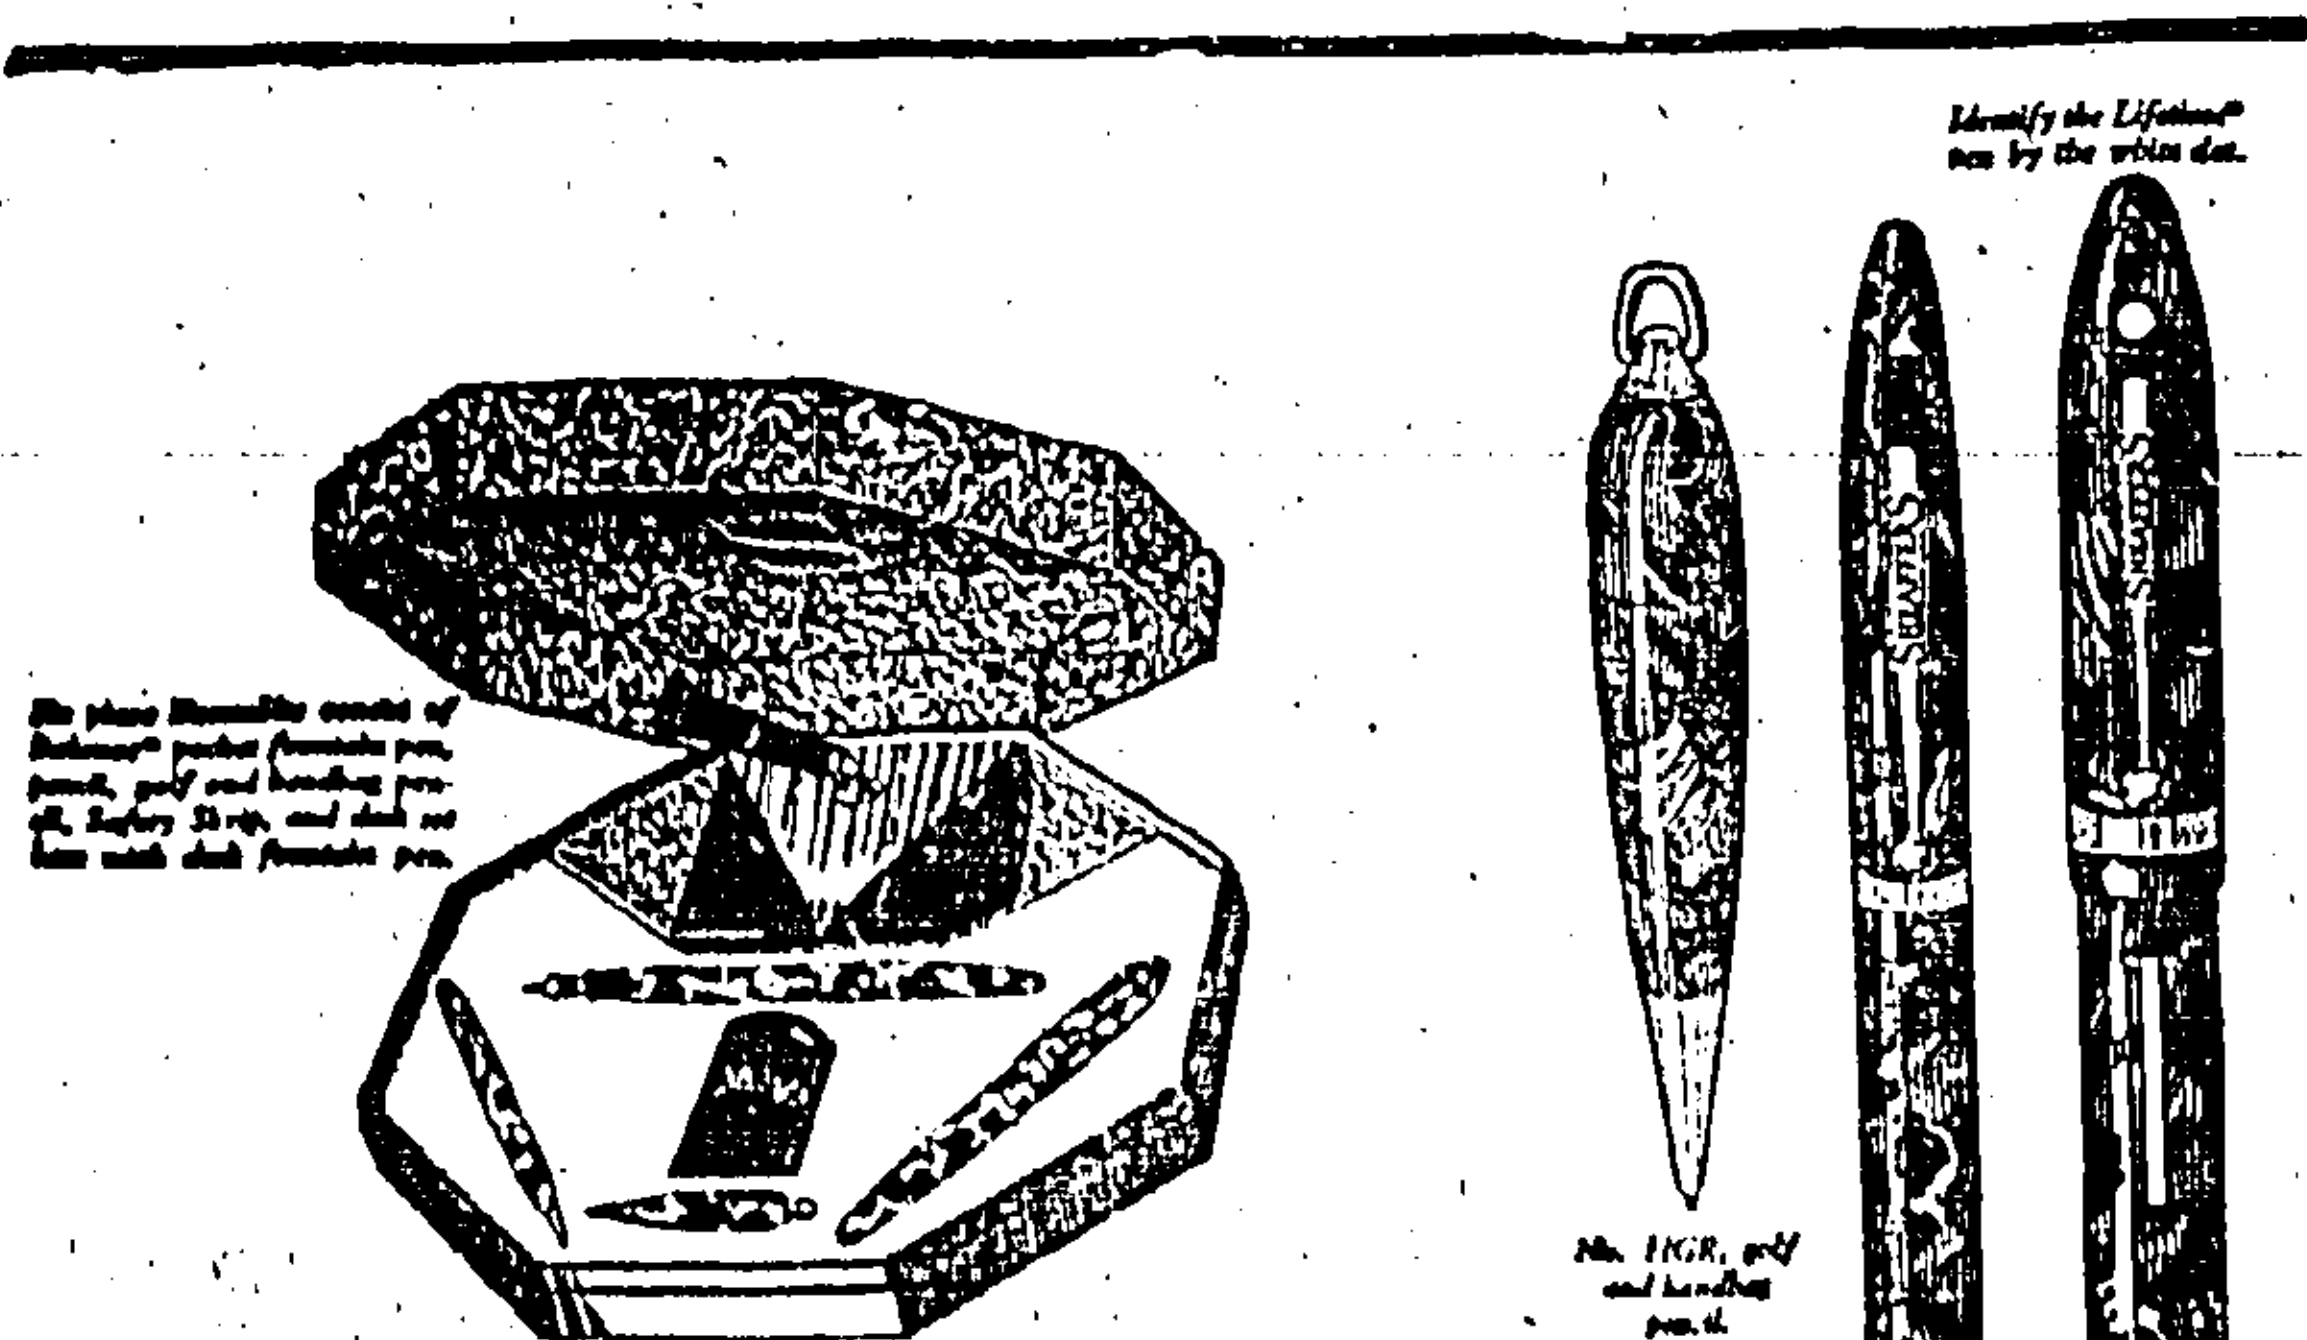

by which it will be noted that all of the proceeds from Debentures are invested in Mortgages and $1,131,500 of the Company's capital.

In the past twenty years the Company has negotiated more than one hundred million Taels in mortgages, all of which has been repaid, principal with interest.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

A picture in which Ramon Novarro appears would not be complete without a song. For his new starring feature, "Huddle" which will be shown at the Queen's Theatre on Sunday has a song titled "A Vac Chella," an Italian composition by Tosti. The melody was chosen as one of the most tuneful of love songs for romantic scenes between the Latin star and Madge Evans, leading lady in the production. The words are quite intimate and when translated as part of the scene were discovered to be better than any dialogue that could be written into the script. Novarro accompanies himself on the guitar during the song. "Huddle" is a story of modern university life in one of the leading educational centres of America, and contains many scenes of student life reminiscent of Novarro's famous "The Student Prince." The supporting cast includes Madge Evans, Una Merkel, Ralph Graves, John Arledge and Frank Albertson. Sam Wood applied his experience with such college pictures as "One Minute to Play" and "So This is College" to directing the production.

"Transgression"

No picture of recent months has evoked more spontaneous praise from critics than has "Transgression," a stirring drama which Herbert Brenon directed for Radio Pictures and which comes to the Queen's Theatre on Friday featuring Ray Prunty, Ricardo Cortez, Paul Cavanagh and Nance O'Neill. The production is said to be far advanced in the realms of sheer beauty and dramatic strength. In this new film Herbert Brenon has achieved what he considers the ultimate in screen perfection. It is seldom that Brenon grows enthused over his own work. Eleven years of cinematic effort in helping bring an infant industry to the plane of an art—more reaching and universal than the graphic arts—has tempered his ever of self-plaudits still left him. Ziv-er, when this screen creator of "The Greta," and scores of equally famous pictures, thinks he has achieved something out of the ordinary in "Transgression," the opinion must be given considerable weight. Brenon is the most definitely assertive individual in motion pictures. He is his severest critic. He doesn't pander to ego and vanity. A picture is either good or bad—his own included. Many who have seen "Transgression" have been unable to express its great dramatic power and vivid treatment in terms of mere words. For the first time in many years, real life is portrayed on the screen in all its ramifications.

"Viennese Nights"

"Viennese Nights" now showing at the Queen's Theatre, is the creation of Sigmund Romberg and Oscar Hammerstein II, the two who have created more glamorous and melodious entertainment than any living collaborators. The story is one of exquisite tenderness, the theme being the deathlessness of beauty. The settings are gorgeous being all in natural colours. The glamour of Vienna is told so often, in story and song, is caught with stirring vitality. Marching troops, gay ladies, street gamins, stout burghers, ample frocks, all seen in the flickering golden light or leaves blowing, horses bearing ancient vehicles, crowded with gay roysters, all are there. But this is but the beginning of the haunting story of love and renunciation. The action covers a period of fifty years and some of the scenes are in New York shifting back to Vienna for the thrilling and unexpected climax. The story is built about the fate of a girl who falls in love with a poor musician but is forced to marry a rich officer, by her ambitious father. Through poverty and exile the poor man works desperately trying to finish the symphony which is to be dedicated to her and it is the grandchildren of the two who find the realization of the lost dream. Those who know Romberg and Hammerstein, and who does not, will be able to faintly visualize this last and greatest work of their united genius.

"What Price Hollywood"

Of its people and made by its people, Hollywood writes its own biography in "What Price Hollywood," which brings the smart vivacity of the glamorous Constance Bennett in her latest RKO Pathé starring production, which opens at the Central Theatre to-day. Miss Bennett is purported to surmount the charm and elegance she displayed in her previous film success, "Lady With A Past," which won a host of new fans for the screen star. With a galaxy of celebrities in support, Miss Bennett unfolds the intricacies and intimacies of the inner and more notable circles of the film Capitol. Lowell Sherman, Neil Hamilton, Gregory Ratoff, Louis Beavers and others aid the star to present an authentic scrutinisation of Hollywood life. The action traverses the thoroughfare of social life coupled with a delightful tale. Malibu Beach, the Brown Derby Restaurant, glittering Hollywood Boulevard, Agua Caliente, a Chinese Theatre premiere and the princely estates of Beverly Hills partake of the film footage to enhance the story. Moreover, every phase of talking picture making is freshly revealed. The story of "What Price Hollywood" was authored by Adela Rogers Ayland, one of the city's own residents who consequently is enabled to cull the most familiar angles of Hollywood. Concerning half with the studio gates, the plot who craves the spectacular rise of a writer who enchants a famed director and producer to gain ace ranking on the screen. Interviewed, is an ultra-modern note of romance and whimsical comedy which will charm readers' eyes and snare an additional list of followers. "What Price Hollywood," directed by George Cukor, is a David O. Selznick production.

"The Vanishing Frontier"

They're enemies on the screen, but in real life Raymond Hinton and Wallace MacDonald are the best of friends. The two players, cast with John Mack Brown, J. Farrell MacDonald—no relation—and Evann Knapp in "Vanishing Frontier," a story of the Old West, now showing at the King's Theatre, fight each other through the picture until Hinton is killed. But their real-life friendship extends over a period of some two decades back to the time when Hinton was a featured player in a stock company managed by MacDonald. In "Vanishing Frontier" MacDonald is cast as a cavalry officer enforcing brutal martial law in the State of California during the period immediately after its coming to the United States by Mexico, before civil has the role of a member of a sort of Robin Hood gang commanded by Johnny Mack Brown, which helps the oppressed at the expense of the authorities, as a protest against the way things are run.

"Movie Crazy"

Fifty per cent. of the value of previews would be lost to Harold Lloyd if it were not disclosed in advance that it was his picture being tried out, as is now being done by several of the larger companies. It was asserted recently by the bespectacled comedian, Lloyd previews something four or five times. It is surprising to average how audiences vary in their reactions, according to sections in which you show. Even with the output of novels, short stories and plays larger now than ever before in the history of literature, making hunting ground for producers in search of picture material, it is all valued as far as Harold Lloyd is concerned. He can use nothing but original stories written especially for him. Most of his stories are built around an idea or hunch that he has which is developed into a full length picture. An example of this is "Movie Crazy" with Constance Cummings, in which the famous comedian will celebrate his first screen appearance in two years. It struck him that the story of a hapless young man entangled in the maze of a modern picture studio would make an ideal vehicle for his particular style of comedy. Accordingly the story has developed around that idea, gags and funny situations. The film comes to the King's Theatre on Saturday.

WILL OF MURDERED COMPRADORE.

LATE MR. WOO HAY-TONG
LEAVES $1,844,900.

Mr. Woo Hay-tong, the Hong-kong millionaire compradore who was murdered in June this year, in what was described as "the most sensational shooting outrage in the history of the Colony," has left estate to the value of $1,844,900.

Mr. Woo Hay-tong, alias 11 Hang-shing, who was 67 years of age, resided at 15, Kennedy Road, and probate to the will has been granted to Messrs. S. T. Butlin and H. R. Forsyth, two of the partners of Messrs. Linstead and Davis, of Gloucester Building, estate agents and chartered accountants, power being reserved to make a like grant to Mr. C. B. Brown, one of the other partners of Linstead and Davis.

Decensed, in his will, appoints Messrs. Linstead and Davis, of Alexander Buildings, estate agents, or the partners or partner for the time being of the said Messrs. Linstead and Davis, to be executors and trustees of the will.

Will's Appointments.

He appoints his wife, Woo Chan-shi, to be guardian of his infant children, and in the event of her death before the children attain the age of 21 years, appoints the managing director of St. Joseph's College guardian of such male children as sons, and the Mother Superior of the French Convent guardian of such children as shall be daughters.

To his wife he bequeathed, absolutely, all jewellery and other articles of personal and domestic use or ornament.

To the trustees he bequeathed the sum of 11,000 upon trust, as to $5,000 to be spent on the funeral expenses of his wife, and $3,000 on the funeral of each of his two concubines, Woo Lam-shi and Woo Pui-shi.

In addition he bequeathed to the trustees the sum equivalent to such a multiple of $10,000 as represented the number of his unmarried sons and daughters at the date of his death, upon trust, to pay each unmarried son and daughter $10,000 to defray their marriage expenses.

In respect of the two foregoing bequests decensed stipulated that the money for such expenses be invested, and the income therefrom be treated as forming part of the income arising from the residuary estate.

His residence, 15, Kennedy Road, he bequeathed upon trust to the trustees during the life of his wife, concubines and children.

A clause in the will stated that his own funeral expenses should not exceed $10,000.

Included in a number of small family bequests was $500 a month to his wife for family expenses at Kennedy Road as well as any further sum to be certified by her for school fees and other educational expenses, and medical expenses if necessary; $500 a year for his wife for ancestral worship; and to each son and daughter on attaining the age of 21 years the sum of from $300 to $500 per month.

The trustees are directed to select at any one period one or more of decensed's sons or grandsons as the case may be, and send him or them abroad for the purpose of furthering their education.

Another clause in the will relating to the ultimate estate is that it be invested "for a period of 21 years from the date of the death of the last survivor of all my children and grandchildren living at the date of my death upon trust

CALL OF THE WEST

when Dona had first seen it. The cooking things were lying in a neat row beside the fireplace and the blankets were still on the bed. Dona imagined them to be just as she had tossed them back on the morning when she had awakened as Stan Ball's prisoner.

Dudley began poking around the floor and walls. Dona crossed to the stone bunk and sat down. For a little while her eyes followed the circle of light from the flashlight. Then she gave herself up to a queer feeling of desolation. The place seemed to breathe the presence of Stan Ball. Dona wished she had not come. All the old longing with its wild and gusty surges of emotion swelled up in her heart.

Dudley was examining the ground carefully. He straightened suddenly and called to her. "Here is where Swerger stood when he got the drop on Ball."

"Right there," Dona agreed absently.

"His hobnails" cut right into the floor of the cave," Dudley went on. His flashlight continued to bob along and halted before the fireplace. Dona ceased to watch, losing herself in her own thoughts.

Suddenly Dudley whistled loudly. Dona started and looked across to where he was poking in the fireplace.

"Live coals!" he almost shouted. "I knew that fellow was still hanging around these hills."

Dona sprang up and crossed to his side. Dudley snapped off the flashlight and a half dozen live coals glowed brightly. A sudden icy grip tightened at the girl's heart and she could not take her eyes from the ruddy embers gleaming in the ashes.

(To be continued.)

London, Nov. 30.
In the House of Commons today Mr. Thomas Griffiths inquired of the progress of the Singapore base. Mr. Evan Wallace replied that the work was proceeding in accordance with the recommendations of the Imperial Conference of 1930, namely on the dock fourth wall auxiliary constructional work.

The contract period was seven years and although no section was completed, progress was in accordance with contract.—Reuter.

CONTRACT
BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the ninth of a series of articles by Mr. McKenney explaining the one over one system for contract bridge.

The one over one forcing bid is the bid from which the one over one system derives its name, and unfortunately many players are under the impression that if they use this bid, they are playing the one over one system.

This, of course, is far from correct. The actual one over one forcing bid is only one bid of a complete system and plays no more important part than many of the other bids used in that system.

The bid is employed in the following manner:

When the original bidder's suit bid of one is passed by an opponent and partner overcalls with another suit bid of one, he is making a one over one forcing bid which shows a biddable suit and, in the majority of cases 1½ high card tricks.

If the next opponent passes, the original bidder is required to bid again, while the one over one is an absolute force. It makes no promise for game. The original bidder is only required to keep the bidding open once, unless the one over one bidder makes another forcing bid on the next round.

In this manner, the one over one forcing bid differs from jump shift forcing bids which demand that the bidding be kept open until a game is arrived at.

The one over one forcing bid and the jump shift forcing bid might be compared to telephonic, or direct, communication as compared with postal, or indirect, communication.

The one over one force keeps the bidding low and is comparable to a telephone conversation—the parties are on both ends of the wire, and by talking back and forth, they are in direct communication and can arrive at a definite decision by exchange of information without too much loss of time—in other words, before the bidding gets too high.

The jump shift forcing bid often forces the bidding too high before partners can intelligently exchange the information necessary to arrive at the correct contract.

The one over one forcing bid takes advantage of a favorable situation. Quite often, when holding a biddable suit and 1½ high card tricks, it is necessary for partner to bid two in order to show his suit; e.g. the original bidder opens with one heart and partner's biddable suit is clubs or diamonds. The bid would now have to be two.

However, if the suit happened to be spades, partner would make a bid of one spade, and therefore the original bidder, with a minimum hand, is given the choice of three declarations, none of which will ever be higher than two.

He may respond: first, with one no trump to inform partner that he has only a four-card suit or a weak five-card suit, that he does not have normal support in partner's suit, and therefore is desirous of signing the hand off; second, with a good five-card heart suit and a minimum hand, he can sign off by bidding two hearts; third, with normal support in partner's suit and still a minimum opening bid, he can make a sign-off bid of two spades.

Of course, with additional strength, this can be shown by using one of the forcing bids.

The one over one bidder is now given several choices. If the original bidder's response was one

SMOKING CONDEMNED.

DEBATE AT SAILORS' AND SOLDIERS' HOME

An entertaining debate took place at the Sailors' and Soldiers' Home, Wanchai, last evening, on the motion "That the prevalence of the Smoking Habit is to be deplored." Mr. A. Edwards presided over a large audience.

The Rev. W. Walton Rogers, in proposing the motion, deprecated smoking as an utterly savage and degrading habit which was one of the consequences of the discovery of America (laughter). As to the evil effects of smoking, Mr. Rogers hurled medical dictionaries at his audience and added that although the smoke from the Cement Works in Kowloon was often complained of, the far more prevalent and injurious clouds of smoke from addictions of the tobacco habit were not mentioned (laughter). About the only use of tobacco which the speaker could think of was as an emetic, as demonstrated by Robinson Crusoe on a famous occasion.

With great gusto he quoted Butler's "Anatomy of Melancholy" in a reference to "hellish, devilish and damned tobacco." In Turkey the penalty for its use at one time was death; in Russia, knouting; the Methodist Church 100 years ago prohibited its ministers from the use of tobacco, and the prohibition still stood.

The Rev. E. G. Powell, opposing the motion, denied that tobacco could be condemned under any of the dictionary meanings of "deplorable." It was helpful to mind and nerves; it gave a feeling of repose and confidence, thereby improving intellectual work. Tobacco gave a great deal of employment and was a large revenue producer. As most of the tobacco came from America, we were paying our war debts with our breath (laughter). He looked forward to the day when all the nations would smoke the pipe of peace (applause).

Mr. S. Hamer smoked a fat cigar while he declared, in support of the motion, that smoking was a "nasty, dirty, dangerous habit" expenditure on which was non-productive, as it would be better applied to more useful enterprises.

Mr. W. Sprague, speaking forth, entertained the audience with an amusing defence of tobacco, amongst other things as a specific for nagging wives.

The Chairman then invited the audience "If they could find a spare inch of ground not covered" to take a hand, and a number of further entertaining speeches were made. Mr. Rogers finally demolished the "argument" that smoking is a good thing because it prevents giving way to worse habits, by saying "You might as well encourage a murderer to give up murder and go in for theft."

The motion (with the help of penitential votes from addicts) was declared carried by a large majority.

no trump, partner can now pass, with a minimum hand he can support the original bidder's suit with a bid of two hearts; he can deny both no trump and the original bidder's suit again with a bid of two spades.

If the original bidder's response was two hearts, partner may now pass, holding a minimum hand, or he may again deny support for the original bidder's suit by bidding either two no trump or two of his own suit, which was spades; if the original bidder's response was two spades, partner may pass if holding a minimum hand.

The one over one forcing bid can be made even when holding normal support in the original bidder's suit, as this suit can be sup-

JAPAN'S PLEAS

COUNT UCHIDA GIVES
ASSURANCESTokyo, Nov. 30.
The Japanese Foreign Minister,
Count Uchida granted an exclusive interview to Reuter to-day.Referring to the developments in Manchuria since the outbreak last year, the Count was clearly seeking to calm the fears of smaller nations, lest the Manchurian question should provide a precedent.Briefly tracing and explaining developments, and stressing the importance of background, Count Uchida emphasised that "the whole situation was an entirely exceptional and abnormal one, due to chaotic conditions in China."This state of affairs, he declared, consequently demanded exceptional treatment.

Legitimate Defence.

Reiterating his contention that all the actions of Japan since September 18 last year had been "solely measures of legitimate defence," and declaring that Japan
"gives her solemn word that she did not foment the establishment of Manchukuo," Count Uchida said that "nothing Japan had done is in the least degree inconsistent with any international engagements."He concluded by expressing confidence "that the able and experienced statesmen in the League Assembly would arrive at a complete understanding of the motives which actuated Japan."—Reuter's Special.

Japan Opposed

Tokyo, Nov. 30.
A spokesman of the Foreign Office said to-day that Japan was strongly opposed to the suggested general conciliation committee on the Manchurian dispute, which would be composed of the Committee of Nineteen with America and Soviet Russia represented. He deprecated any suggestion of discussing the Manchurian problem the same as the Shantung problem.

THE WING ON SOLD.

CHINESE VESSEL REALISES—
$130,000 AT AUCTIONThe steamship Wing On was yesterday put up for auction by order of the Court, by Messrs. Lamert Brothers, and a price of $130,000 was realised.
The purchasers were Mr. Tang Shikin and Mr. Fung Kaiting. Bidding started at $120,000, and rose by bids of $1,000 to the above-mentioned price.The Wing On is a steel twin screw steamship registered in Hongkong, her official number being 133251. She has a gross tonnage of 1,225, and a net tonnage of 750. Her length is 193 feet, breadth 33 feet, and depth
10.1 feet. She was built in 1914 by Kwang Tak Cheong, Hongkong, for the Shui Hing S.S. Co., and has been on river service for most of the time since then.which the Powers discussed at Washington in 1921, "and forced a settlement upon Japan."He emphasised that if the Manchurian problem were to be discussed by a conciliation committee, Japan, Manchukuo and China should be represented thereon.—Reuter's Special.

Shanghai Press Comments

Shanghai, Nov. 30.
While the war debt problem absorbs public interest abroad, the Manchurian dispute continues to figure as the leading topic for discussion in both China and Japan. The view of the Chinese papers is crystallised in the Shen Wen Pao, which says "So long as the Manchurian question remains unsettled, the peace of the world will continue to be threatened."The China Times asserts that the Manchurian issue is the acid test of the authority of the League of Nations and adds that if the Powers fail to uphold the existing treaties by peaceful means, they must resort to forceful measures; otherwise there is no hope for peace in the world. It says the Powers are insincere when they say they desire to uphold the treaties.
"They are not prepared to go a

MAN COMMITTED

COOLIE TO BE TRIED ON MURDER CHARGELo Chong, wharf coolie, was yesterday committed for trial at the next sittings of the Criminal Sessions on a charge of murdering Tong Tsat, alias Tong Fat, on the night of October 23.Mr. Wynne Jones presided at the lower Court hearing. The Assistant Attorney General (Mr. J.A.
Fraser) conducted the prosecution and Mr. Horace Lo appeared for the defendant.The story of the murder, as told at previous hearings of the case, was that the deceased was attacked by coolies when he was attempting to steal vegetables. He was struck on the head with a bamboo pole which fractured his skull.For days he lay in the Government Civil Hospital in a dying condition. During that time a Chinese was arrested and charged with doing grievous bodily harm.
Later Lo Chong was arrested and charged.The injured man died and the charge was altered to one of murder.Only formal evidence was given yesterday. After Inspector Vincent had produced eight photos of the scene of the crime, Tam Hoi, detective sergeant, gave evidence that he arrived in Connaught Road before Tong Tsat was taken to hospital. The dying man told him that he had asked some coolies for vegetables and they had set upon him.Detective Inspector J. Murphy and a few minor witnesses gave short evidence.Through Mr. H. Lo the accused pleaded not guilty, and reserved his defence.step further than peace negotiations. If negotiations fail they are prepared to nullify the treaties instead of upholding them by forceful means."Such a policy, the China Times concludes, will lead to an armament race and eventually to another world war.—*Reuter's Special.*LAST TWO

JAPANESE MAKE RAID IN FRENCH CONCESSION

Extraordinary Incident: Kidnapping Attempt Partially Foiled

BRITAIN'S LAST WORD

U.S. URGED
HER PROBLEMS
ADMITTED

London, Nov. 30.

The British Reply to the United States' Note on war debts received its final form at a meeting of the Cabinet to-day.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, when asked for a statement on the subject by the Leader of the Opposition, Mr. George Lansbury, in the House of Commons this afternoon, said the Reply had been completed and would be transmitted to Washington forthwith.

To-day's meeting of the Cabinet lasted for two hours and all the members were present with the exception of Mr. Stanley Baldwin and the Home Secretary, Sir John Gilmour, who had left earlier for Scotland where they had platform engagements.

LENGTHY DOCUMENT.

The British Note will constitute one of the most important official pronouncements issued since the war. It is a very lengthy document, in which, in response to the United States' request, the reasons that led Britain to make her original request for the postponement of the December instalment of the war debt payments, are exhaustively set out.

It will be issued for publication in Friday's newspapers.

BALDWIN SPEECH.

In the course of an important speech in Glasgow, Mr. Stanley Baldwin made a brief reference to the war debt question, urging the need for patience.

The Conservative leader emphasised that whatever people might think about war debts, the difficulties through which America was passing must be remembered.

He said that the attitude of the United States towards Britain was

(SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, December 1, 12.30 p.m.)

Shanghai, Dec. 1.

AN EXTRAORDINARY INCIDENT IN THE FRENCH CONCESSION YESTERDAY HAS GIVEN RISE TO SERIOUS FRICTION BETWEEN THE FRENCH AND JAPANESE AUTHORITIES.

Again taking the law into their own hands, a group of Japanese, alleged to be members of the Japanese Consular Police, raised a house in the French Concession and attempted to abduct two Koreans.

Annamite police constables who arrived on the scene opened fire on the Japanese, rescued one of their would-be victims and arrested two of the men who took part in the raid.

The French authorities are holding the two Japanese as prisoners and it is reported that they intend to keep them detained until the Korean who was carried away in a fast motor-car is set free. It is definitely known that the attempted kidnapping was carried out on the instructions of high Japanese officials as the Korean who was taken away is at the present moment held at the Japanese Consulate.

FRANCO-JAPANESE FRICTION

The remarkable incident has by M. Koechlin, the Consul-General for France.

Owing to the international complications attached to the affair, precise details are very scanty.

SEVEN RAIDERS.

It is, however, learned that seven Japanese, all of whom are believed to be members of the Consular Police, succeeded in kidnapping only one of the Koreans they were seeking. It is alleged that the man taken is a member of a local "Independent" Society, which has been responsible for numerous anti-Japanese incidents of a minor importance lately.

SHOTS MISS.

Annamite police who attempted to prevent the kidnapping, actually opened fire on the Japanese, who had arrived in a fast motor-car, had raided the house occupied by the Koreans and were just hurrying off when the Annamite constables appeared.

Five Japanese who were in the car already abandoned their two colleagues and the other Korean and made off, none of the bullets fired off them apparently taking effect.

It is understood that the French police have definitely refused to release their Japanese captives until the Japanese Consulate sets the Korean at liberty.—Reuter.

The victim was seen to emerge from Ship Street, heading for the Taiwong Temple and walked into a trap set by at least two men, who were waiting at a point directly opposite the Temple.

Knives were used in the affray which ensued, when two men without warning lunged themselves. It is alleged, upon their unsuspecting victim, and stabbed him, inflicting a number of wounds.

VICTIM COLLAPSES.

The assailants escaped before the full significance of the affair dawned upon the crowd.

The victim collapsed, regained his feet, staggered for a distance of fifty yards and then laid down, Manchuria's bitter winter is now settling down upon the country, a temperature below zero being reported during yesterday's operations. Our photo shows some of Gen. Su Ping-wen's troops equipped for the climate.

RAPID ADVANCE

JAPANESE ENTER CHALANTUN

BITTERLY COLD WEATHER

Tokyo, Dec. 1.

An advance of over eighty miles, despite the bitterly cold weather, is claimed by Japanese advanced field headquarters, in the operations against General Su Ping-wen.

The Japanese have thrown several thousand men into the offensive and according to latest information, the first objective, Chalantun, was entered by the advance guards yesterday evening.

The main body is following up as rapidly as possible. The temperature in the sphere of the new operations is already below zero, but the Japanese are reported to be well-equipped for the conditions, while the frost-bound ground has had more than a little to do with the rapidity of the advance.

The frozen conditions have facilitated quick movement by the Japanese mechanised infantry and the cavalry.

CHINESE PAPER SUSPENDED

FOR PERIOD OF 14 DAYS

A local vernacular newspaper, the Nam Chung Po, has been ordered to suspend publication for a period of fourteen days, from to-day's date.

This step has been taken by the authorities in consequence of a breach of the censorship regulations.

Earlier dispute.

A dispute with a cigarette stall holder at St. Francis' Yard over money is said to have resulted, at an earlier hour this morning, in a fight from which the cigarette vendor is said to have suffered. An hour later the coolie was again in conflict, this time with fatal results to himself.

The Police suspect the cigarette vendor and a clansman and are now holding in detention a woman stated to be the former's wife.

OFFENSIVE AGAINST SU PING-WEN

JAPANESE ENTER ON BIG CAMPAIGN

Tokyo, Dec. 1.

According to despatches from Changchun, the Japanese have launched a general offensive against Su Ping-wen's troops in the direction of Hallar.

The operations were commenced yesterday morning, following the continued refusal of Su Ping-wen to negotiate.—Reuter.

READINESS FOR BATTLE URGED

Paris, Nov. 30.

The Opposition newspapers are strongly critical of the Franco-Soviet Pact of Non-Aggression signed at the Quai d'Orsay.

They complain that the agreement cramps France's powers for eventual economic defence measures against the Soviet.

A communique issued from the Quai d'Orsay, however, states that the Pact does not, in any way, affect the complete freedom of the French Government in regard to tariffs and does not prejudice the tenor of the new Franco-Soviet Trade Agreement, negotiations for which are expected to be opened shortly.—Reuter.

Washington, Nov. 30.

Representatives of the United States Brewers' Association will gather here to-day for a series of meetings at which they are prepared to report to Congress on "the state of the industry" and make suggestions on the beer problem.

Such a report has been asked for by members of the House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee.—Reuter.

WORLD COLLAPSE FORESEEN

PARIS SHIPPING CONFERENCE

CALL FOR TRADE FREEDOM

(Our Own Correspondent).

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, Dec. 1, 9.17 a.m.)

London, Dec. 1. The conviction that a complete breakdown of the existing economic system is inevitable unless governments act speedily is implicit in a momentous resolution unanimously adopted in Paris yesterday by world ship-owners.

The resolution calls for an end to economic nationalism and is to be forwarded to the various governments of the world and to the impending World Economic Conference.

Without a free interchange of goods and services in the world market, civilisation cannot live, declares the resolution, which was the culmination of a long and interesting discussion at the Conference of Shipowners in Paris, at which were represented all the maritime nations of the world.

SHIPPING SLUMP.

The shipping slump was, of course, the main occupation in the minds of the speakers, and it was stressed that the situation is getting worse instead of better.

The effect, of course, is to render more difficult the task of stimulating recovery, a task which has passed out of the power of any individual government, which can only be achieved by worldwide co-operation in drastic shattering of existing economic barriers to trade.

ISOLATIONISM DEPLORED.

The resolution passed deprecates the attempts of many nations to exist as self-contained units and declares that for the shipping industry, the restoration of international trade is the paramount need.

The resolution urges the lowering of tariffs all round, also the abolition of subsidies and of currency restrictions.

It further suggests that "most-favoured-nation" treatment should only be accorded to those nations who are prepared to enter the world market on the above terms.

G. O. C. LONDON DISTRICT

MAJOR GEN. GRANT APPOINTED

London, Nov. 30. The War Office announces that Major-General G. C. Grant has been appointed General Officer Commanding the London District in succession to the late Major-General Cator.

Major-General Grant has been Commander of the 53rd (Welsh) Division of the Territorial Army since 1930 and Colonel of the King's Shropshire Light Infantry since 1931. He entered the Coldstream Guards in 1897, and in the European War was wounded, mentioned in despatches seven times and received the D.S.O. decoration.—British Wireless.

HORIZON CLEARS IN GERMANY

GEN. VON SCHLEICHER TO BE CHANCELLOR

HITLER IGNORED

Berlin, Nov. 30.

Things are beginning to move in political circles. The horizon has cleared considerably and it was confidently believed this evening that General von Schleicher will succeed Herr von Papen as Chancellor.

Hitler's attitude to the proposal is likely to be completely disregarded. Many efforts have been made to persuade him to come to an understanding with Gen. von Schleicher without success, and the prospective Chancellor will now, it is anticipated, go on without him.

It is understood that the General who was really the most important figure in the von Papen Cabinet, has already come to an interim agreement with President Hindenburg, whereby he will form a Presidential Cabinet of a conciliatory nature.

No safe prediction can be made of the policy of General von Schleicher as Chancellor, but it is reported that one of his first moves is likely to be the declaration of an amnesty for political offenders sentenced by the special courts.—Reuter.

BAIL REFUSED TO OFFICER

CASE OF COMMANDER SUTTON

Lima, Nov. 30.

An application for bail by Commander J. G. Sutton, R.N., who is at present in prison at Winchester, England, has been rejected by the Supreme Court here.

Commander Sutton was recently sentenced to six months' imprisonment for manslaughter, following the death of a hotel-keeper, but leave to appeal has been granted by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.—Reuter.

OIL RESTRICTION SCHEME

TO RAISE PRICES BY 25 PER CENT.

Paris, Nov. 30.

An attempt is being made to raise the price of oil by about 25 per cent., by a restriction agreement, according to those closely associated with members of the International Oil Conference.

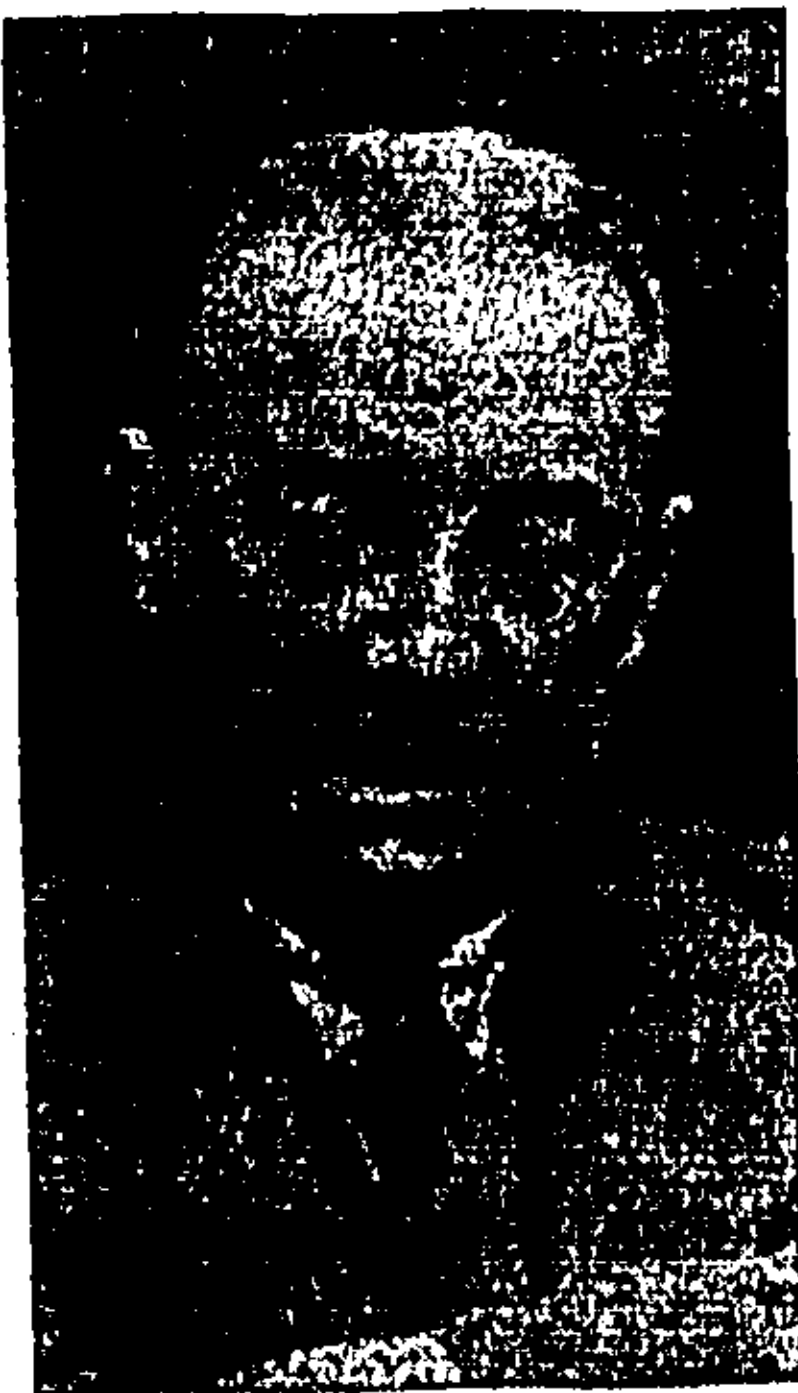

It is rumoured that the Soviet has unofficially intimated that it will join any agreement arrived at by the Conference to limit production.—Reuter.

Mr. Baldwin expressed the hope that any criticism voiced in Britain regarding America's attitude towards the war debt issue might be restrained, because the matter was at present delicate and proceeding.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

It is not what for this winter, but how your new coats and frocks use it that makes fashion fascinating. Luxurious long furs and sleek, satiny short ones vie with each other in popularity. Smart and very 1932 is the daytime dress at left of black wool crepe with galyak puff sleeves and a matching wide fur belt. The separate fur cape is very appealing when made of sable dyed kolinsky, as is the one shown centre, worn in the new right-about-face manner and fastening down the back. Distinguished and flattering is the broadcloth coat, right, with its entire sleeves, yoke and square-front shawl collar of caracul. The sleeves puff and the collar stands up as a soft frame for your face.

HOT HORS-D'ŒUVRES.

The colder evenings will give the enterprising hostess an opportunity of offering hot hors d'œuvres.

For instance anchovies could be served au gratin, that is, covered with breadcrumb and melted and browned in the oven; or as allumettes, each fillet lying on a couch of anchovy butter on a little strip of puff pastry and the whole baked in the oven; or they could be served simply hot on toast. Indeed, the canape, or savoury on toast, the varieties of which are innumerable, is an excellent form of this kind of hors d'œuvre.

You can surmount your fingers' toast, the varieties of which are with scrambled egg sprinkled with cheese or crisp-crossed with thin strip of anchovy, or with a purée of smoked haddock. This latter can also be sprinkled with grated cheese, or garnished with an oyster or two cooked in a little Worcester sauce, or surmounted by a small grilled mushroom, or even a slice of tomato. Purées of this kind can be made from hoppers, blenters or even fresh salmon.

Of meat and vegetable mixtures for canapes there is no end, and amusing and succulent combinations offer endless scope for the ambitious amateur hors d'œuvrier.

Chopped tongue or ham, with parsley and mushrooms, bound with the yolk of an egg; apparatus tips sprinkled with grated cheese and grilled a golden brown; chicken livers and mushrooms and a taste of minced onion; a little chopped kidney; grilled mushrooms or tomatoes, and so on.

Bacon can come to our aid, too, so long as the rashers are streaky

COATS AND SUITS

(From A Paris Correspondent)

Coats that are worn around Paris and in the country, too, are of two types this season. There is a new coat silhouette that is not fitted, and that makes a point of a flaring line from the shoulders to the back. This is one, and the Paris dressmakers vary it in many ways, making it without a collar and with a big shawl collar, with or without pockets, and with loose or bishop sleeves.

The other kind is fitted and has sleeves that are exaggerated at the top to give the popular broad-shoulder appearance. You can wear such coats all day long without any sacrifice of smartness, provided they are made of one-colour dull-surfaced silk or wool. Parisiennes wear these coats over their simple suits when they go to the country.

The kind of suit that is most awfully smart is one with a hip-length fitted jacket and a plain high-topped skirt. All smart Paris is wearing these suits, accompanied by printed silk blouses, with linen or cotton blouses, and with silk or cotton crocheted awenters when they go to the country.

and of the thinnest cut, and it is crisply cooked.

Roll them round oysters, chicken livers, stuffings made from various forcemeats or potted meats, or tomatoes and mushrooms bound together with the yolk of an egg and a few fine breadcrumb; the little rolls grilled, fried crisply, or well baked, before they grace their dainty pieces of toast.

Eggs can be hard-boiled, cut in half and filled with various mix-

BEAUTY AT YOUR FINGER TIPS.

If you have flattened finger tips or brittle nails you should give your hands the new "oil cap" treatment.

Bandage each finger lightly with 1-inch wide bandages soaked in cuticle oil or cuticle cream. Wear a pair of perfectly clean white fabric gloves while the fingers are soaking.

As an extra precaution against the grease penetrating through the gloves and soiling bed linen (or looks if you are reading during the treatment) wear rubber finger stalls.

The added beauty of your hands will well repay the trouble if you do this two or three times a week.

PELICAN HANDBAGS.

Some of the newest handbags are made of pelican skin which, though it may sound unusual, has proved to be a very lasting material. One of the bags is made in a flat, square shape with two pockets inside, and is fastened by a narrow string, consisting of alternate strips of gold and pelican skin.

tures combined with the yolk, and served hot with or without a sauce made to suit the filling.

Tomatoes can also be hollowed out and stuffed in different ways. You can also make tiny balls of any cooked mince, yolk of egg and bread-crumbs and fry them in butter.

Yellow, stained teeth are not natural. For proof start using KOLYNOS just a half-inch on a dry brush, twice daily. In 3 days your teeth will look fully 3 shades whiter.

This remarkable dental cream cleans teeth whiter than other preparations you've used because it contains two remarkable ingredients. One—the finest cleansing agent known—foams into and cleans out every fissure, removes decay-causing debris, erases ugly stain and checks tartar. While the second ingredient kills millions of germs that swarm into the mouth and cause tooth and gum troubles. Thus the mouth and teeth are quickly cleaned right down to the beautiful, natural white enamel without injury.

If you want gleaming white teeth, free from decay, and firm pink gums start using KOLYNOS. You'll never regret it.

CALL of the WEST

BY R. G. MONTGOMERY

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Peace seemed to have descended upon Three Rivers camp and the slopes of Folly Mountain. Men trailed in and out of camp with rifles ready but the zest of the hunt was gone. All of them agreed that Stan Ball must have slipped through their lines and made his escape. Swergin sent out a sheet of telegrams to sheriffs in the surrounding countries giving a description of Ball and posting rewards for his capture dead or alive.

Dona seemed quieter and stayed close to camp. She was beginning to feel the old dread of marrying Dudley. He either sensed this or had some plan of his own on foot for he did not urge her and two days passed uneventfully.

Asper delayed their return to the city. He rode every day but did not go far because of a weakness that set in when he exerted himself. The doctor told him that he was reaping the reward for his reckless conduct while the wound was still in bad shape. Asper grunted and showed the medic his office door, so that after that he was free from the bother of daily examinations.

Dudley rode daily into the hills. He, alone, insisted that Ball would not leave Folly Mountain, that he was still in hiding there. He argued this with Swergin and the timber boss always wound up by saying, "He's gone but any day may see him back."

Dona smiled at these discussions. She knew Stan Ball was miles away from Three Rivers for he had given her his promise.

Asper came in one day, stamping up on the porch where Dona was sunning herself. He stood towering above her with a frown on his face.

"Why don't you take a ride? That roan will be plumb spoiled, standing around eating the extra oats Malloy feeds him." There was real concern in Asper's voice. There was another matter he wanted to ask Dona about but he could not bring himself to the point of putting it into words. He was worried because he feared Dona and Dudley had had a quarrel. He could not understand Dudley's riding out alone every day and leaving his wife.

Dona smiled up at her father. "I'm just resting, Dad." She knew her father wanted to ask why she didn't ride with Dudley.

"Dudley rides a lot," he suggested shortly.

"Dad and I had an argument about riding when we first came here," Dona smiled. "I rode off and left him a couple of times, you remember." There was a mischievous light in her eyes.

Asper smiled grimly. "Just the same he's a cool one for a new husband."

"Dudley is going to be all right," Dona assured him. In her heart she knew that Dudley was going to be the typical society husband. Now that he was sure he could force her to marry him at any hour he wanted, he was in no hurry.

Asper shook his head. Suddenly he bent and raised the girl's chin so that he could look straight into her eyes. "Remember, D, this family has never gone for these new-fangled wrinkles. Your Mother and I never allowed we'd have a divorce in the family." He was so serious that Dona laughed outright.

"With me it's for keeps," she smiled. Jumping up, she slipped her slender arms around her father's neck and hugged him. She wanted to let herself go and sob in his arms but pride kept her from it.

Asper patted her arms with rough tenderness. "You come to your old Dad when you get down. I've plenty of time to ride with you." He held her away at arm's length. "Everything is fixed ready for our trip down out of this country. We'll start to-morrow night so as to miss the heat in the desert."

"I'll be all packed and ready to go," Dona promised.

A few minutes later Dudley appeared. He had been poking around the corral. Dona met him with a smile and he patted her hand absently, then went to his room. When he returned she told him they were to leave the next night. Dudley did not seem particularly enthusiastic.

"Sure, I can get ready," he grunted.

"This afternoon I'm going to ride with you as a last goodbye to Folly Mountain," Dona was so eager to go out again over the trail where she had met such exciting adventures but a few days past.

Dudley lighted a cigarette and pulled at it before he spoke. "How about going at one?"

"Fine. I'll be ready and we'll take a real ride!" Dona patted his arm playfully.

That afternoon they rode into the high country. Dudley cautioned her to be careful and to let him lead the way. He insisted that Ball was still lying low and waiting to finish the job he had started. Dona only laughed at that.

"This is my last ride, Dad, and I want to go the way I like best. I want to ride up the Pass Creek trail clear to the rim." She smiled eagerly across at him.

Dudley was suddenly willing to let her have her way and they cantered along at a brisk rate. The roan was so full of life that Dona had to keep pulling him in to make his pace fit that of Dudley's horse.

Dona had a plan in the back of her head but she did not tell Dudley about it. She wanted to visit the cave high under the rim of the mountain. It was not a trip for anything she expected to find there but she had a longing for one last look inside the place.

So she led Dudley up the mountain and along the rim. At the slash in the rim rock where the hidden entrance began she halted and looked back at Dudley.

"I am about to take you into a bandit's cave," she called.

Dudley looked worried and adjusted his holster carefully. "Do you think we ought to go poking in there?" he asked doubtfully.

"Ball is a thousand miles from here," Dona laughed and headed the roan into the tangle of brush that hid the entrance.

Dudley crowded close upon her heels and they soon emerged on the

LONDON IN THE THICK OF A MID-DAY PEASOUPER

Looking up Ludgate Circus at mid-day one day last month, when the first of the season's fogs descended.

When federal marshals closed and padlocked a former speakeasy in Newark, N.J., they unwittingly imprisoned an old habitue of the place—a big cat which had hidden out during the closing ceremony. Tabby made known its plight by promenade in the window as shown here until passersby appealed to U. S. authorities. Finally, from Trenton, 40 miles away, came a marshal with a key, and Tabby came out—for repast!

The final round of the Mixed Foursomes at Worpleston ended in an easy win for Miss Joyce Wethered (seen driving) and R. H. Oppenheimer over Miss Audrey Regnart and Commander J. R. Johnston.—(Times copyright).

October 24, 12 noon, in Piccadilly Circus. All the street lights had to be illuminated and cars crawled through the streets, conditions being worse for traffic than had it been midnight in normal conditions.

WHAT IS IN A NAME?

A hat without the maker's name is like an unsigned picture. The maker's name, mind you—not just a name. "Lincoln Bennett" in a hat is the name of the actual makers, of those who, for more than a century, have designed and fashioned hats to fit all heads—all types—all occasions. Hats to be proud of—mighty good hats. The Best British Make.

The name of his hatter does matter to a man, for wherever he leaves his hat the name is seen. Therefore let it be a good name and a British one.

CHINESE INVOICES

ADVICE TO MERCHANTS ON PROCEDURE

In an interview with Press representatives yesterday, Mr. Y. H. Wen, who has been appointed by the Nanking Government to be Chinese Invoice Officer for Hongkong under the new arrangements which call for the certifying of all invoices of goods destined for China, gave details of procedure which are here published for general information.

Mr. Wen is a native of Taishan, Kwangtung province, but spent his early years in North China. In fact, he has travelled widely in China, except in the South. In 1904 Mr. Wen went to the U.S.A. to complete his military education at the famous academy at West Point and subsequently saw military service in China both before and after the Revolution. He has also held the office of President of the Ching-fan College, Peking, and was later Chief of Police in Harbin.

Mr. Wen's office is now in the Customs House, where he was in charge during the troublous days early this year. The new Chinese Invoice Office is established on the fourth floor of the French Bank Building in the Bond Street, where, at the time of the Press visit, a crowd of office men were waiting for specimens of the invoice form, a model of which was available for free distribution. There is, however, a shortage of copies of the Regulations, so that it will be convenient for the principal articles here, adding explanatory remarks elicited in conversation with Mr. Wen.

Article I.
From the date of the coming into effect of the present Regulations, all merchandise imported into China, valued at or above two hundred dollars Chinese currency, shall be accompanied by Consular Invoices issued by the Chinese Consulate at or near the port of embarkation; postal parcels and such goods as are admitted duty free by the Chinese Maritime Customs being excepted.

Notes.—As there is no Chinese Consulate in Hongkong, Mr. Wen has been appointed by the Nanking Government, after negotiations in which the British Foreign Office and the Hongkong Government have taken part, with the title of "Chinese Invoice Officer". His functions are concerned only with the certifying of invoices. The two hundred dollars Chinese currency is calculated in Customs Gold units, 110 of the latter being the equivalent at the moment. The fees charged by the office will be based on the official rate issued weekly by the Chinese Maritime Customs for the calculation of Customs Gold units. To-day the rate is $9.25 Hongkong currency for five customs gold units. Certified invoices will not be required for rice and other cereals, books and educational equipment, etc., or anything which is admitted to China duty free.

Article III.
The Consul shall verify all the items contained in the invoice as filled in by the merchant, before certification is made. In case the Consul deems it necessary to examine the sales contract, the commercial invoice or other documents, the merchant shall furnish the same.

Notes.—For "Consul" in this article read, in the case of Hongkong, "Chinese Invoice Officer". Mr. Wen stated that in practice it would not be necessary for merchants to produce any supporting documents—only when his office questioned the accuracy of the invoice. He added that at first he would have some difficulty in verifying the particulars given, until he became familiar with prevailing prices. In any case, the Chinese Maritime Customs, with their vast experience, would see that goods under-declared in value were not admitted into China without paying the proper rate of duty.

Article IV.
Each set of the Invoice forms shall consist of three copies, one original in white, and two duplicates in yellow.

Article V.
The fee for the certification of a set of the forms shall be five Chinese Customs Gold units and shall be collected at the time of certification.

Notes.—Mr. Wen explained that unless he received instructions to the contrary from Nanking, he proposed to charge the fee at the time of issue of the blank set of forms. The reason for this is that the stock of forms which he has received from Nanking is actually numbered and he has to account for every one. If he issues blanks in quantities to firms, and weeks or months elapse before they are all used up, his records will be come full of gaps representing forms unaccounted for.

If a set of forms is inadvertently spoiled it will be replaced free of charge on being handed back to the Chinese Invoice Office. If the particulars required to be entered are too long to be shown on the space provided in the form, the merchant should attach a continuation sheet of the same size as the form and also in triplicate, repeating the same serial number as appears on sheet 1, and both the first sheet and the continuation sheet will be certified without extra charge. If a transaction is expressed in a foreign currency, the total of the invoice should be converted into Hongkong currency.

Article VII.
Merchandise sold to two or more different firms, or carried by two or more different vessels, or destined for two or more different ports, shall not be covered by the same invoice.

Notes.—This seems to require no further explanation except to say that there is no necessity to make out a different invoice for each article when sending several different commodities to one consignee.

Article VIII.
Upon the arrival of the merchandise at destination the consignee shall present the original copy of the invoice to the Chinese Maritime Customs together with other Customs papers for examination.

Notes.—The principal comment to be made here is that the exporter must be careful to enclose the certified invoice with the documents forwarded to the consignee. The duplicates of the certified invoice are both retained by the Chinese Invoice Officer, one in his file copy and the other is forwarded to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs at the end of each month in order that a check may be placed with the original which is collected by the Chinese Maritime Customs.

General.

Mr. Wen said the instructions stated that merchants should submit invoices to the nearest office to the port of embarkation. Under this instruction he would be willing to certify any invoices forwarded to him by merchants in Macao where there is no Chinese Consul. He understood that it sometimes happened that merchants in Hongkong gave instructions for cargo to be moved from neighbouring countries into China. He would also issue a certificate in those cases, unless, of course, there was a Chinese Consul in that country.

Mr. Wen was asked what would be the procedure if part of a cargo which had been certified was short-shipped, so that the invoice showed a greater quantity of goods than actually reached destination. He replied that in practice he thought no difficulty would arise as the Chinese Maritime Customs would deal with the matter at destination. Asked if he had any idea as to the number of requests for certified invoices that he would receive daily, Mr. Wen said it was difficult to say but he expected about 100 daily. After all, a substantial percentage of Hongkong export trade was to countries other than China, although, admittedly, the bulk of the exports went to China. If it was found that the provision made was inadequate, a larger staff would be engaged in order to give prompt service.

CONSUL LEAVING.

ITALIAN REPRESENTATIVE GOING TO MUKDEN

Capt. R. Ferrajolo, who has been in Hongkong for the last eighteen months in the capacity of Italian Consul General, will be leaving the Colony on the 5th instant.

Capt. Ferrajolo arrived in Hongkong after having spent 13 years in the Far East, always attached to the Italian Diplomatic Service; in Shanghai, Harbin, Peking, Hankow and Mukden. Previous to his entering the diplomatic service he performed brilliantly during the war.

His cheerful disposition and sincerity have made him a friend to all who had the pleasure of meeting him, and his tactfulness joined with his generosity and ability, will be long remembered by those who have had the privilege of making his acquaintance. The departure of both Capt. and Mrs. Ferrajolo will be a deeply felt loss to the Italian Colony of Hongkong, who had for them not only a sense of respect but a feeling of true friendship.

Capt. Ferrajolo is transferred to his old post in Mukden, and it is owing to his great knowledge of that particular country that the decision was arrived at that he is probably the only man in China of his nationality actually capable of fulfilling such a delicate position.

Mrs. Ferrajolo will also be remembered here for her delightful talent as a singer.

GERMAN CABINET.

GEN. VON SCHLEICHER HOPING TO RECONCILE PARTIES

London, Nov. 30.
It is reported from Berlin that, contrary to earlier reports, Gen. Von Schleicher is still sounding the party leaders, and expects to meet Herr Hitler and try to persuade him at least to "tolerate" a cabinet under the General's leadership.

This move, however, is expected to prove abortive, whereupon Von Schleicher will renounce the task of trying to obtain a political truce with the parties, thus leaving Von Papen to carry on in the face of furious hostility from all sides.—Our Own Correspondent.

IS JAPAN INDICTED?

The London Daily Telegraph is evidently very anxious that no impression shall get abroad that the British Government regards the Lytton Report as an indictment of Japan's actions in Manchuria. With the issue still before the League, it is quite right and proper that Britain and all the other Powers should suspend judgment. None the less, it is difficult for the layman to reach any other conclusion than that Lord Lytton and his colleagues have definitely found Japan to be in the wrong. Of the initial operations in September of last year it is recorded that they "cannot be regarded as measures of legitimate self-defence." Then the Report undoubtedly treats "Manchukuo" as the sham which it is, calls for its abolition, and stresses the restoration of Chinese sovereignty as one of the fundamental conditions of any settlement. But an even stronger indictment is implied in the remarks contained in the Report to the effect that Japan, without declaration of war, has forcibly seized a large area of indisputably Chinese territory. It is, we are aware, argued by Japan that everything she has done in Manchuria has been in legitimate self-defence, and that her actions are not inconsistent with the League Covenant, the Kellogg Pact, or the Nine-Power Treaty. But these contentions do not bear close analysis. The League Covenant makes specific provision for arbitral adjudication on disputes, whereas Japan has seen fit to use force. The Kellogg Pact is based on a recognition of the principle of pacific adjustment. The Nine-Power Treaty definitely, in its very first article, safeguards the territorial and administrative integrity of China, and, what is more, calls for consultation between the signatories. Yet Japan has preferred to get on her own initiative. To Japan's argument that her special interests in Manchuria are vital to her, the answer is that the Report recognises the existence of these interests and suggests a method of satisfying them. But no supporter of the League can admit that Japan should proceed in violation of the peace machinery of the world. The Daily Telegraph suggests that British policy is to proceed in collaboration with the other Powers, and, above all, "in good faith and friendship with the United States." Seeing that American opinion is intensely critical of Japan's whole policy in Manchuria, what are we to make of the quoted words?

Gutter Brand Cigarettes

The industrious scavenger who apparently has been making a living by producing cigarettes from discarded ends picked up in the street gutters was rightly absolved from legal penalty in the Police Court yesterday. Life would not not be safe for anyone if Ordinances could be stretched in all directions to meet special cases. At the same time, the facts brought out suggest that the occupation of this particular man, and apparently of many others in the Gutzlaff Street district, required official action. We cannot imagine any better medium for the spreading of tuberculosis and other germ diseases than cigarettes produced under the conditions described, and while the smokers are probably perfectly aware of the source of origin, they should be protected from themselves. Incidentally, this is not a new local "industry" by any means. Some years ago, the B.A.T. brought prosecutions against manufacturers of Gutter Brand cigarettes, who rendered themselves liable by also collecting B.A.T. containers and selling their wares under well-known labels. The man in court yesterday did not go quite as far as this, but the danger to the community is, we suggest, worthy of greater consideration than the infringement of a wealthy firm's trade mark.

Personal Liberty

The problems connected with the pursuit of liberty are intricate and always with us. Among such problems perhaps none is more difficult than that of finding out what constitutes freedom. Liberty, intellectual as well as political, must not be confused with license. To avoid such confusion, the individual must enter into the pursuit of knowledge not only of the sort to be gained in school but that also which is implied in the command, "Know thyself." Many persons enjoying a maximum of freedom—political, economic and social—will agree that there is yet a deeper form of liberty, and that only as one is in possession of intellectual and moral freedom can he make the best use of the other forms. To intellectual freedom the schools have much to contribute. But the assertion of moral freedom is in the hands of the individual. It is becoming clear that moral liberty is the corner stone upon which rests all true liberty, both national and personal. Such freedom may, perhaps, be likened to a magnificent building. Its structure appears as a multiplicity of ideas which may best find effective expression, free and distinct, in contributing to the whole. Thoughtful people now recognize that freedom is something other than merely doing whatever one likes. Those who are intelligently working for its wider establishment know well the need of critical excursions among their own desires and actions. They know that only by freeing themselves from greed, from appetite, from willfulness, can they gain that self-government which is the foundation of free government, and which guarantees liberty to their neighbours as well as to themselves.

Clemenceau Museum

Paris has added yet one more to its long list of museums. The little flat on the ground floor of a house in the Rue Franklin, where Clemenceau lived, has just been opened to the public. His bedroom, which was also his workroom, contains a bed without a mattress—for the "Tiger" always slept on boards—and a work table with the manuscript of the last page of his book, "Grandeurs et Misères de la Victoire," kept in place by the goose quill that he used. In the dining room, on a table, there are three large rusty keys which had been given to Clemenceau. They are the keys of the Bastille. The famous skull cap still hangs on a hook in the tiny hall, and several of Claude Monet's paintings adorn the walls of the apartment. Behind, in a little garden, a few small rose bushes provide the flowers that Clemenceau loved so well.

THESE MASSIVE MODERN BRAINS

By ROBERT LYND

IT always surprises me when people who love animals set out earnestly to prove that the animals they love can think.

An eminent man of science delivered an address the other day in which he denied that animals are capable of thinking; and immediately everybody who owned a cat or a dog or a pet lamb became vehemently indignant, as though an insult had been offered to the darlings of the animal world.

I do not see why it should be considered that one shows greater respect for cats by saying that they can think than by saying that they cannot. It is not disrespectful to cats to say that they cannot play the piano, and thinking is no more a cat's job than playing the piano. If cats could think they would cease to be able to purr. You never hear a philosopher purring.

THE BELL POLLERS OF WELLS.

There are, of course, all kinds of stories about animals that suggest that they possess some kind of intelligence. The guide-books tell us, for example, that the swans in the moat that surrounds the Bishop's Palace at Wells pull a bell by the side of the moat when they want to be fed.

I have never seen a swan doing this, and I fancy that when I was last in Wells the bell was broken. I am willing, however, to believe that the tradition is true, while remaining unconvinced that the swan is a highly intellectual bird. After all, if you met a human being who was in the habit of ringing a bell when he wanted food and who showed no other sign of intelligence, you would regard him almost as an imbecile.

At the same time, it is hard to believe that some animals are more intelligent than others—that a dog, for instance, is more intelligent than a processionary caterpillar. Even so, I must confess that I have never met a really intelligent animal. Except, perhaps, a cat called Peter. I do not know why I thought he was intelligent. Probably it was because he looked intelligent, and I was greatly attached to him. But even he, the most intelligent animal I have known, had not enough brains to understand when he was told that it was wrong to kill birds.

I made my objections to his killing birds perfectly clear to him, but whether or not it was that he regarded this as inconsistent coming as it did from a human being who frequently dined on chicken, he never paid the slightest heed to me. Vegetarians may see in this a proof of the cat's intelligence.

Such intelligence as animals show, however, is of an essentially different kind from the intelligence of human beings. Some animals are intelligent enough to be able to learn to perform tricks, but they are not intelligent enough to invent tricks for themselves—or, at least, to invent new games for every new generation. The untrained animal plays the same games as its ancestors have played for generations, and the same games will be played by its descendants a thousand years hence. It requires the massive brain of a human being to invent such games as Tiddleywinks.

The chief evidence for the intelligence of human beings lies in the fact that, unlike the other animals, they are constantly changing everything that they find it possible to change. The lion is dressed to-day as lions were dressed in the days of Julius Caesar; but in the same space of time human beings have changed the fashions of their clothes almost as often as spring has come round.

The Englishman, once painted with wood, developed into that mighty-brained being whom you will see dancing round and round in tails and a white waistcoat. As for the Englishwoman, the most highly intelligent being yet created, she changes the fashions of her dress more quickly than the intelligence of man can follow her.

It may be argued that all the animals except man were born perfect in the beginning—that the first chaffinch, for example, was perfectly clothed, and knew how to build a perfect house for itself—and that therefore they showed their intelligence by not changing.

TIGERS CAN'T MAKE BOMBS.

I deny, however, that animals were created perfect. Take the tiger, for instance, who still fights with his teeth and claws. These were perfectly efficient weapons before his enemy, man, had learned to arm himself. They are hopelessly out of date, however, against powder and bullets. Yet the tiger has not had the brains to devise new ways of defeating a brainy two-legged animal who is physically greatly his inferior.

Much as I like animals, indeed, I can see no evidence that they are much good at thinking. If wild animals could think, they would be much wilder in their treatment of human beings. The lions and the tigers and the elephants would unite in a war on the frail biped who persecutes them.

No lion or elephant has yet invented a bomb. Human beings may not have much brains, but, at least, they had enough brains to do that.

A THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY

SPORTS AND GAMING, WHETHER PURSUED FROM A DESIRE OF GAIN OR LOVE OF PLEASURE, ARE AS RUINOUS TO THE TEMPER AND DISPOSITION OF THE PARTY ADDICTED TO THEM, AS THEY ARE TO HIS FAME AND FORTUNE.—Burton.

"Good morning, madam! Do you find yourself wondering how to put your spare time to gainful use?"

The Very Idea!

S.W.B.'s in B.V.D.'s

By Edward (Patou) Kelly.

New uniform and equipment, which, if finally adopted, will considerably alter the appearance of the British Army, was officially shown for the first time in London this week.

A striking feature of the display, we learn, was a light waterproof hat, of the deer stalking pattern, which can be folded into the pocket.

We understand that the decision regarding this type of hat was made only after considerable discussion by the War Council.

The idea of a deer stalking hat is, of course, for the Army, self explanatory.

Thus, in Peace-time, every man can lay down the arms of War for the arms of the girl friend.

Pending further information, no decision has been made yet regarding trousers.

It is stated unofficially that the S.W.B.'s will be confined to barracks while the authorities are taking down their particulars.

Although open-necked shirts have been finally decided upon, we are sorry the War Council did not go further than this.

Something that would strike a more original—more daring—note was required.

For instance, we had every hope of admiring the handsome curves of Tommy Atkins in Kaiser wrap-ons.

And it is a positive shame to let him go out on a route march without a set of Lustre underwear. Then we'd like to see the Q.M.S. of one of the local regiments, posing in the very latest things in corsets.

Or the Sarge Major, looking for all the world like a stocking advertisement.

No regimental Colonel would be le dernier cri unless he has That Schoolgirl Complexion, or The Skin You Love to Touch.

Really, if the British Army is to be anything at all, this scheme will have to receive full consideration before it is adopted.

"PITHEY"

So that old Pithcanthropus what's-her-name was a female after all.

We knew it all along. "You can kill yourself with kindness. You can scouse yourself with ale. But the female of the species is more deadly than the male."

What proved the thing conclusively was the size of the lower jaw.

THE SAHIB.

The University examinations remind us, so don't be unkind.

"A Sahib is an important Indian who has been to a public school, but if he is a Pukka Sahib he is not an Indian at all but a Sahib. If he is not a Pukka Sahib he has not been to a public school."

"Mulligatawny was an Irishman who invented soup. He was what they call a broth of a boy."

"The Marathon race is named after the battle of Marathon, between the Greeks and Romans. The Greeks ran so fast they were back in Athens in no time, and the one that got there first was acclaimed the victor."

"The Inquisition was a rather strict tribunal. It burnt you if you told the truth and sent you to the stake if you didn't. This was called a Dilemma."

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Daisy (Kowloon).—Yes (we mean No), it's not too early to be thinking about your Christmas presents. Begin by making out two lists—the second for use if you lose the first—and, for obvious reasons, keep them in different places! You have a good foundation to build on in the "gifts" sent you last year. May's "mules," for example, will do nicely for Janet; and Cousin George's imitation fruit is just the thing for May. Be sure that labels, inscriptions, etc., are carefully removed.

BANKS.

We have just had a letter from our Bank Manager.

It begins as all letters from our Bank Manager begin: "Dear Sir, I beg to draw your attention to the fact . . ."

And yet some people are worried by the fact that Mr. Montagu Norman travels incognito.

We are glad he does. The last thing we want is bank directors thrusting themselves upon our notice.

If all the washing machines in the Colony were placed end to end, a woman would still select a radio.

The French super-liner, Normandie, which has just been launched at St. Nazaire, shown as she will appear when ready to sail the sea. Interesting features are the gradually descending height of the funnels and the motor-boat racing type of bow.

RACE FOR ATLANTIC SUPREMACY

FRENCH SUPER-LINER TO BE READY IN SPRING OF 1934

BLUE RIBBON HOPES

(Telegraph Special.)

A new race for Atlantic supremacy is foreshadowed by the launching of the world's largest liner, the Normandie at St. Nazaire.

The vessel is now in the yards for the finishing work upon her superstructure until she resembles the striking picture above. It is anticipated that she will commence service on the Atlantic in the Spring of 1934.

LARGEST EVER.

The Normandie, which was laid down in January, 1931, has a tonnage of 75,000, making it easily the greatest vessel ever launched. The White Star liner Majestic is of 57,000 tons, with the Leviathan nearly the same size, and the Europa and Bremen of the North German Lloyd are about 52,000. The Cunard Line stopped work some months ago on its celebrated mystery ship, which was designed for about 73,000 tons, and whatever happens to the program of construction, it now seems certain that the Normandie will be in the Havre-New York service long before any rival of its size.

FIVE-DAY CROSSINGS

From the point of view of speed, the French Line expects the Normandie to make the Atlantic crossing in five days or less, regardless of the weather. It is no secret that officials hope that their boat will take the speed honours from Germany.

The vessel is 1,920 feet long over all and 118 feet abeam at the waterline. From keel to funnel tops its height when complete will be 176 feet. It will have a passenger capacity of over 2,100 and a personnel of about 1,300.

The liner will have seven floors and eleven decks, five of which will be full length. There will be ten lifts for passengers and two for the crew, 56 lifeboats, including two equipped with powerful motors and wireless.

The ship will be propelled by four electric motors of 40,000 horsepower each, connected with four shafts and four screws. In addition to the electric motors, a group of turbo-dynamics will provide power for lifts, cranes, lighting and ventilation.

ORIGINAL LINES.

The lines of the vessel are rather original. An inclination of the bow above the water line is designed to prevent the waves from washing over the decks. The top deck forward is rounded like a shell and this section ends with a spur which is calculated to stop any flow of water and get rid of it without damage. The object is to enable the ship to go through rough weather without diminishing of speed.

INDIAN PARLEY CONTINUES

GOVERNORS' POWERS DISCUSSED

The discussion on the special powers and responsibilities of the Governor-General and Governors was continued at to-day's meeting of the Indian Round Table Conference and will probably be completed at to-morrow's sessions.

Attention was drawn to the resolution passed by the Chamber of Princes in February last and particularly to the necessity for the provision of adequate safeguards in the Constitution.

Generally it was agreed that powers must be given to the Governor-General to carry out effectively the responsibilities entrusted to him. Including powers to take immediate action to meet any emergency that might arise.—British Wireless.

JERRY BUILDING IN KOWLOON

HEAVY FINES ON CONTRACTORS

The managers of several building contractors' firms were summoned before Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday for divergence from plans approved by the building authority. Mr. A. F. Reynolds, of the P. W. D., prosecuted.

The manager of the Tsang Kam-kee, contractors, 109, Second Street, West Point, was summoned for causing a divergence from the approved plan by constructing a 4½-inch cement concrete slab instead of a five-inch reinforcement, steel being placed at eight inch centre instead of 4½ inch, steel rods being of ¾ inch thickness instead of ½ inch. Defendant pleaded guilty and was fined $1,000.

In another case, the manager of the Kwok Tsun-kee, contractors, of 102, Fa Yuen Street, Mongkok, was summoned for a divergence from the approved plan by constructing a 4½ inch cement concrete slab in lieu of five-inch, over the bath room in a house under construction at N. K. L. No. 1847, Tak Ku Ling Road, and laying reinforcement at 20 inch centre instead of 7½ inch centre.

A fine of $1,000 was imposed.

The managers of the Wa Cheong Company and Ching Sang Kee Company, both of Kowloon City, were each fined $500 for constructing brick walls with inferior bricks and mortar which were not to the satisfaction of the Building Authority.

Two Wing-cheong, of Kowloon City, was also fined $500 for use of defective material.

OPIUM SMUGGLER CAUGHT

USE OF A SPECIAL SAMPAN

Revenue Officer Humphreys brought three seamen before Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on a charge of being in possession of 32 tacks of non-Government prepared opium on an unlicensed sampan.

R. O. Humphreys alleged that the sampan was one specially used for smuggling. There was no cargo on board and the opium was hidden in a special compartment at the stern. The first defendant admitted, when arrested, that he was the master of the boat, while the other two claimed they were only foks.

A fine of $960, or nine months, was imposed, his Worship at the same time ordering the contraband and the sampan to be confiscated.

Whilst on duty in Canton Road yesterday afternoon, a district watchman saw a coolie walking along the street with 38 pieces of brass. When questioned, the man could not give a satisfactory explanation and was taken to the Mongkok Police Station. When charged by Sergeant Wagland before Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning defendant said a friend gave these things to him, but admitted that his friend had told him that the metal had been stolen from a shop running between Mong-kong and Sham. A fine of $50, or a month, was imposed.

ADVERTISING CO. SUED

"CRITIC" SECURES JUDGMENT

CHANGE OF NAME

A claim for $546 in respect of four contracts made by the United Publicity and Advertising Company, of the Asiatic Building, with the Critic Publishing Company, in connexion with the rent of advertising space, was heard before the Puisne Judge (Mr. Justice Wood) at the Supreme Court this morning.

Mr. T. P. K. Kemble (Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist) appeared for the plaintiffs, and Mr. F. C. Rendall (Messrs. Russ and Co.) was for the defendants, the United Publicity and Advertising Company, Limited.

PROMISE MADE:

Mr. Kemble, outlining the case for the plaintiffs, stated that plaintiffs published a paper called The Critic and in August the then manager of the United Publicity and Advertising Company, a Mr. Helvig, called at The Critic offices with a view to advertising, and, as a result of a conversation, certain articles were inserted in The Critic in exchange for a promise of advertising in the future.

In due course, the editing partner of The Critic saw Mr. Helvig several times and obtained written orders for advertising. About that time, Mr. Helvig proved to be unsatisfactory to the United Publicity and Advertising Company and was in fact dismissed.

Plaintiffs made repeated application for payment and on each occasion were informed that Mr. Helvig was in Canton. There was no mention of the fact that on October 26th the company had become a limited company. The United Publicity and Advertising Company, Limited, carried on the same type of business in the same building, but moved from the 2nd to the 4th floor. As such, he contended, the second company was liable for contracts entered into by the manager of the former company.

Mr. Rendall objected that the United Publicity Advertising Company had not been issued, as they should have been. He contended that the present writ against the defendant company should be withdrawn and a new one issued including the names of the partners of the defendant firm or that the present writ should be withdrawn, another issued against the names of the partners and they should be joined as second defendants under the Fraudulent Transfer Ordinance.

MR. O'SHEA'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. Raymond O'Shea, editing partner of The Critic gave evidence to the effect that the contracts totalling $546. He called at the defendants' offices six times during October and was not aware of the fact that the company had changed its name.

Mr. Rendall questioned witness at length concerning the orders, including dates of publication, and eventually the amount claimed was reduced to $380.

His Lordship asked for evidence of the transfer of the business, to which Mr. Kemble replied that in that connexion the course of evidence was privileged and asked for an adjournment.

Mr. Rendall:—In view of that, I apply for the costs of the day and all future costs.

His Lordship ruled only one application was admissible, and Mr. Rendall accepted the latter.

Mr. Kemble:—In view of my position may I have leave to consult the Registrar?

His Lordship:—Yes.

The Court then adjourned.

MAJOR CASSEL CALLED.

When the case resumed, Major Cassee, a partner in the plaintiff firm, stated that he had known a Mr. Wu was interested in the former company either as sole proprietor or as a principal partner. He also knew by an advertisement in the papers that he was managing director of the United Publicity and Advertising Company, Limited.

Mr. Rendall:—I submit there is no case for me to answer. There is no evidence at all that there has been any assignment of the whole

OPIUM HAUL AT WANCHAI

THREE JAPANESE ARRESTED

No less than 900 tacks of opium, valued at $10,800, represented the haul made by revenue officers last night as the result of a raid at Nos. 86 B and 80D, Lockhart Road Wanchai, first floor.

Three Japanese who were on the premises were arrested and charged at the Magistracy this morning, a remand being granted.

Revenue Officers who had been keeping the premises under observation, saw a case being brought in at about 6 o'clock last night, an hour before they sprang their surprise on the inmates. Anticipating a resistance, the officers went about their task armed, and it is understood that they made a display of this fact when ordering the three Japanese to submit.

The contraband, it is further believed, had just been landed on the new Praya East, and in the course of moving it to the address at Lockhart Road, some Japanese were challenged by an Indian policeman and managed to put him off, but they were unaware that they were being trailed by revenue officers in civilian garb.

TWO OUTBREAKS OF FIRE

STABLE MATCHED DESTROYED

Fire yesterday destroyed one of the stable matcheds near the Hongkong Polo Club at Causeway Bay. The matcheds, which measured 80 feet by 40 was used as a stable but at the time of the outbreak was unoccupied. Shortly after 4 o'clock the fire broke out and quickly burned to the ground. Up to the present, the cause of the outbreak is unknown.

Whilst foks of the Kwok Man Ping Factory, of Ki Lung Street, were mixing paint yesterday afternoon, the mixture caught fire and caused damage to the extent of $500 to machinery. Two foks received slight burns and were subsequently treated at the Kowloon Hospital. A message was sent to the Fire Brigade and the appliances from the Kowloon Station were dispatched, but fortunately the outbreak was not of a serious nature.

Dr. Chan Wing-tsit, a graduate of Harvard University and the Secretary and Professor in Culture to the Ling Nam University, will give the first of three lectures at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. to-morrow at 8 p.m. The talk will be on "Family Revolution."

The Chairman and members of the Executive Committee of the Hongkong Society for the Protection of Children gratefully acknowledge the receipt of $5,000 from the Directors of the Tung Wah Hospital, being a part of the proceeds of the performances by the Yan Sau Nin Theatrical Company at the Ko Shing Theatre.

or any part of this business from the first company to the second.

His Lordship:—The loan principal of the first company is the loan principal of the second, isn't it?

Mr. Rendall:—You cannot have a loan principal of a limited company.

JUDGE'S DECISION.

His Lordship ruled that there was evidence to answer in regard to the similarity of title, both companies having offices in the same building, and the production of a memorandum which showed the managing director of the second firm was the same person who owned a principal share in the first company.

Mr. Rendall repeated his submission regarding the assignment, which His Lordship over-ruled.

The first and only witness for the defence was Chiu Pan-lan, secretary of the second company, who produced a certificate of incorporation dated October 26th. The second company did not take over the business; they merely bought the furniture of the first company for $200.

His Lordship found the second company liable for the debt and gave judgement for plaintiffs in the sum of $380.

INDIANS PACK THEIR GOAL

MAMAK DEFEAT BY R.A.S.C.

The K.I.T.C. were lucky not to be beaten by more than three goals to nil when they met the R.A.S.C. at Sookunpoo yesterday in the Mamak tournament.

The Army men were continually on the offensive and throughout the Indians were forced to pack their goal. Nevertheless, they showed greatly improved form and their resistance to the onslaughts levelled at their goal was very stubborn.

The teams crossed over with the Service Corps leading by one goal to nil, scored by Barlow. In the second half they added two more of which was netted by Senior.

RUGBY CHAMPIONSHIP

Sensational Defeat
Of Kent

London, Nov. 30.
Two matches were played to-day in the South Eastern Rugby Championships. Eastern Counties defeated Surrey by 17 points to three, and Middlesex gained a sensational victory over Kent scoring 34 points against six. —Reuter.

SUPERB DIVING DISPLAY

"DUTCH" SMITH & SIMAIKA

HUGE C.B.C. CROWD ENTERTAINED

Giving their second display of fancy diving in Hongkong, the Olympic divers, "Dutch" Smith and Farla Simaika, last night entertained a huge crowd at the Chinese Bathing Club.

Earlier in the day the two men visited Canton and gave a display before a crowd of 5,000 at the Canton Swimming Club.

Mr. R. Summeril, manager and coach of the team, introduced the divers at the beginning of the performance. They opened the programme with a running forward swim dive, followed by front jack knife dives.

"Smith's next dive was a layout back somersault, executed perfectly, and was followed by a layout front somersault by Simaika in equally as graceful a manner. The latter followed with a flying somersault, Smith astounded the audience with a standing spring full twist somersault, a difficult dive to do. Simaika's forward spring backward dive also won great applause.

Smith's next was a forward spring one and half somersault while a still more difficult one was called the back somersault with half twist by Simaika. The other divers included a double forward somersault opening by Simaika, a running full twist by Smith, a back one and half somersault by Simaika, a forward two and half somersault by Smith, a running forward twist with perfect entry by Simaika, a layout back one and half somersault performed with a rigid position by Simaika.

Smith was greeted with loud applause when he executed a difficult dive which was the latest addition to the Olympic list, called the running forward one and half somersault forward with a full twist. This dive was awarded highest points in the Olympic games.

The enjoyable programme of spectacular diving was concluded with several humorous diving and swimming acts by the champions with Simaika playing the part of a coach and Smith that of a learner in an outside swimming suit of the last century.

To-night's performance will see the champions doing several novel dives.

LOCAL RUGBY.

The Borderers Defeat H.M.S. Devonshire.

A GOOD GAME.

In a rousing game at Sookunpoo yesterday afternoon, the South Wales Borderers defeated H.M.S. Devonshire at rugby by three points to nil. The teams were very evenly-matched, the Devonshire men doing well to hold the strong military side to such a small margin.

The Devonshire team showed prominently in defence, but the forwards were weak. On the other hand, the military three-quarters played a sound game and only the sterling defence of the sailors prevented them from scoring, although they were very near the line several times.

Half-time came with the score-sheet blank, but after the change-over, Lieut. Martin, the Borderers' skipper, scored after a movement in which all the three-quarters showed up well. The kick failed to add the two extra points.

FANLING HUNT.

To Be Held on Wednesdays and Sundays.

In a previous announcement the days of meeting of the Fanling Hunt were inadvertently stated to be Wednesdays and Saturdays. It should have been stated that subsequent meets will take place on Wednesdays and Sundays, except when a Kwant Race Meeting is held on a Sunday, in which case Hounds will not meet.

SOCCER AT SHAMEEN.

A.P.C. Eleven Defeat the Rest in Good Game.

SOME OUTSTANDING PLAY.

A soccer game of considerable interest took place at Shameen on Monday last, when an eleven selected from the foreign staff of the A.P.C. met and defeated the rest of Shameen. The A.P.C. were able to place in the field such interlopers as German of Hongkong fame, Polley of Swatow, Campbell of Shanghai and Agnew of Nanning; whilst on the opposing side were others in the persons of Pote-Hunt of Shanghai, Linaker of Fiji and Taylor of Gloucester.

On a hard ground the game opened very fast, and the ball swung to and fro with little to choose between the two sides. Soon the superior combination of the A.P.C. team was manifest, and a furious attack on the Rest's goal ended in Reid netting the leather to open the score. The Rest's custodian, Nickleman, who we hear is an old Copenhagen, was playing a superb game, and some of his full length saves across the goal mouth were loudly applauded by the large crowd present.

At the change over the A.P.C. were one up, but in the second half the better condition of the A.P.C. team began to tell, and the defence of the Rest was penetrated from time to time, resulting in three more goals being added to the A.P.C. score.

For the victors one of the outstanding players was Blochynen, who carried all before him until a boot intercepted him in the second half and he, in turn, was carried—from the ground. Others were Southam, who being nearest to a descending ball, gave a pretty display of head work, and Reid and Hewitt on the wings, who contributed to the force of the attack.

For the losers, Pote-Hunt's application of magnificent football by a few choice remarks from time to time, Linaker showed some pretty footwork, and the services of Jack Hallett in "Sunshine Sues," and King managed to be everywhere at once.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

A picture in which Ramon Novarro appears would not be complete without a song. For his new starring feature, "Huddle" which will be shown at the Queen's Theatre on Sunday he sings a ballad titled "A Vuc Chella," an Italian composition by Tosti. The melody was chosen as one of the most tuneful of love songs for romantic scenes between the Latin star and Madge Evans, leading lady in the production. The words are quite intimate and when translated as part of the scene were discovered to be better than any dialogue that could be written into the script. Novarro accompanies himself on the guitar during the song. "Huddle" is a story of modern university life in one of the leading educational centres of America, and contains many scenes of student life reminiscent of Novarro's famous "The Student Prince." The supporting cast includes Madge Evans, Una Merkel, Ralph Graves, John Arledge and Frank Albertson. Sam Wood applied his experience with such college pictures as "One Minute to Play" and "So This is College" to directing the production.

"Transgression"

No picture of recent months has evoked more spontaneous praise from critics than has "Transgression," a stirring drama which Herbert Brenon directed for Radio Pictures and which comes to the Queen's Theatre on Friday featuring Kay Francis, Ricardo Cortez, Paul Cavanagh and Nance O'Neill. The production is said to be far advanced in the realms of sheer beauty and dramatic strength. In this new film Herbert Brenon has achieved what he considers the ultimate in screen perfection. It is seldom that Brenon grows enthused over his own work. Eleven years of cinematic effort in helping bring an art—more reaching and universal than the graphic arts—have tempered whatever self-maudlin still left him. However, when this screen creator of "Beau Geste," and scores of equally famous pictures, thinks he has achieved something out of the ordinary in "Transgression," the opinion must be given credit to his high standards. Brenon is a most definitely assertive individual in motion pictures. He is his severest critic. He doesn't pander to ego and vanity. A picture is either good or bad—his own included. Many who have seen "Transgression" have been unable to express their great dramatic power and vivid treatment in terms of mere words. For the first time in many years, real life is portrayed on the screen in all its ramifications.

"Viennese Nights"

"Viennese Nights" now showing at the Queen's Theatre, is an evocation of the romance of Vienna. It is a picture in which the two who have created more glamorous and melodious entertainment than any living collaborators. The story is one of exquisite tenderness, the theme being the deathlessness of beauty. The picture is a gorgeous being all in natural colours. The glamour of old Vienna told so often, in story and song, is caught with stirring vitality. Marching troops, gay ladies, street gamins, stout burghers, ample frocks, all seen in the flickering golden light or leaves blowing, horses, learning, ancient vehicles, crowded with gay roysters, all are there. But this is but the beginning of the haunting story of love and renunciation. The action covers a period of fifty years and some of the scenes are in New York, shifting back to Vienna for the thrilling and unexpected climax. The story is built about the fate of a girl who falls in love with a poor musician but is forced to marry a rich officer, by her ambitious father. Through poverty and exile the poor man works desperately trying to finish the symphony which is to be dedicated to her and it is the grandchildren of the two who find the realization of the last dream. Those who know Romberg and Hammerstein, and who does not, will be able to faintly visualize this last and greatest work of their united genius.

"What Price Hollywood"

Of its people and made by its people, Hollywood writes its own

biography in "What Price Hollywood," which brings the smart vivacity of the glamorous Constance Bennett for the latest Pathé starring production, which opens at the Central Theatre to-day. Miss Bennett is purported to surmount the charm and elegance she displayed in her previous film success, "Lady With A Past," which won a host of new fans for the screen star. With a galaxy of celebrities in support, Miss Bennett unfolds the intricate and intimacies of the inner and more notable circles of the Film Capitol. Lowell Sherman, Neil Hamilton, Gregory Ratoff, Louis Beavers and others aid the star to present an authentic scrupulousness of Hollywood life. The action traverses the thoroughfare of social life coupl'd with a delightful tale. Malibu Beach, the Brown Derby Restaurant, glittering Hollywood Boulevard, Agua Caliente, a Chinese Theatre premiere and the princely mansion of Beverly Hills make the film footage to enhance the story. Moreover, every phase of talking picture making is frankly revealed. The story of "What Price Hollywood" was authored by Adela Rogers Hyland, one of the city's own for the most part, and is enabled to tell the most familiar angles of Hollywood. Constance Bennett, with an ambitious girl who crashes the studio gates, the plot depicts the spectacular rise of a waitress who enchants a famed director and producer to raise her to stardom on the screen. Interwoven is an ultra-romantic note of romance and whimsical comedy which will charm Bennett fans and snare an additional list of followers. "What Price Hollywood" directed by George Cukor, is a David O. Selznick production.

"The Vanishing Frontier"

They're enemies on the screen, but in real life Raymond Hatton and Wallace MacDonald are the best of friends. The two players, cast with John Mack Brown, J. Farrell Macdonald—no relation—and Evelyn Knapp in "Vanishing Frontier," a story of the Old West, now showing at the King's Theatre, fight each other through the picture until Hatton is killed. But their real-life friendship extends over a period of some two decades—back to the time when Hatton was a featured player in a stock company managed by MacDonald. In "Vanishing Frontier" MacDonald is cast as a cavalry officer enforcing brutal martial law in the State of California during the period immediately after its ceding to the United States by Mexico, before civil government had been set up. Hatton has the role of a member of a sort of Robin Hood gang commanded by Johnny Mack Brown, which helps the oppressed at the expense of the authorities, as a protest against the way things are run.

"Movie Crazy"

Fifty per cent. of the value of preview would be lost to Harold Lloyd if it were to be disclosed in advance that it was his picture being tried out, as is now being done by several of the larger companies. It was asserted recently by the hotheaded comedian, Lloyd, previews something four or five times. It is surprising, he avers, how audiences vary in their reactions, according to sections in which you show. Even with the output of novels, short stories and plays the history of literature, making hunting ground for producers in search of picture material, it is all value as far as Harold Lloyd is concerned. He can use nothing but original stories written especially for him. Most of his stories are built around an idea or hunch that he has which is developed in a full length picture. An example of this is "Movie Crazy" with Constance Cummings, in which the famous comedian will celebrate his first screen appearance in two years. It struck him that the story of a hapless young man entangled in the maze of a modern picture studio would make an ideal vehicle for his particular style of comedy. Accordingly the story has developed around that idea, gags and funny situations. The film comes to the King's Theatre on Saturday.

WILL OF MURDERED COMPRADORE.

LATE MR. WOO HAY-TONG
LEAVES $1,844,900.

Mr. Woo Hay-tong, the Hong-kong millionaire compradore, who was murdered in June this year, in what was described as "the most sensational shooting outrage in the history of the Colony," has left estate to the value of $1,844,900.

Mr. Woo Hay-tong, alias 11 Hang-shing, who was 57 years of age, resided at 15, Kennedy Road, and probate to the will has been granted to Messrs. S. T. Butlin and H. R. Forsyth, two of the partners of Messrs. Linstead and Davis, of Gloucester Building, estate agents and chartered accountants, power being reserved to make a like grant to Mr. C. B. Brown, one of the other partners of Linstead and Davis.

Deceased, in his will, appoints Messrs. Linstead and Davis, of Alexander Buildings, estate agents, or the partners or partner for the time being of the said Messrs. Linstead and Davis, to be executors and trustees of the will.

Will's Appointments.
He appoints his wife, Woo Chan-shi, to be guardian of his infant children, and in the event of her death before the children attain the age of 21 years, appoints the managing director of St. Joseph's College guardian of such male children as sons, and the Mother Superior of the French Convent guardian of such children as shall be daughters.

To his wife he bequeathed, absolutely, all jewellery and other articles of personal and domestic use or ornament.

To the trustees he bequeathed the sum of 11,000 upon trust, as to $5,000 to be spent on the funeral expenses of his wife, and $3,000 on the funeral of each of his two concubines, Woo Lam-shi and Woo Pun-shi.

In addition he bequeathed to the trustees the sum equivalent to such a multiple of $10,000 as represented the number of his unmarried sons and daughters at the date of his death, upon trust, to pay each unmarried son and daughter $10,000 to defray their marriage expenses.

In respect of the two foregoing bequests deceased stipulated that the money for such expenses be invested, and the income therefrom be treated as forming part of the income arising from the residuary estate.

His residence, 15, Kennedy Road, he bequeathed upon trust to the trustees during the life of his wife, concubines and children.

A clause in the will stated that his own funeral expenses should not exceed $10,000.

Included in a number of small family bequests was $600 a month to his wife for family expenses at Kennedy Road as well as any further sum to be certified by her for school fees and other educational expenses, and medical expenses if necessary; $500 a year for his wife for ancestral worship; and to each son and daughter on attaining the age of 21 years the sum of from $300 to $500 per month.

The trustees are directed to select at any one period one or more of deceased's sons or grandsons as the case may be, and send him or them abroad for the purpose of furthering their education.

Another clause in the will relating to the ultimate estate is that it be invested "for a period of 21 years from the date of the death of the last survivor of all my children and grandchildren living at the date of my death upon trust

CALL OF THE WEST

when Dona had first seen it. The cooking things were lying in a neat row beside the fireplace and the blankets were still on the bed. Dona imagined them to be just as she had tossed them back on the morning when she had awakened as Stan Ball's prisoner.

Dudley began poking around the floor and walls. Dona crossed to the stone bunk and sat down. For a little while her eyes followed the circle of light from the flashlight. Then she gave herself up to a queer feeling of desolation. The place seemed to breathe the presence of Stan Ball. Dona wished she had not come. All the old longings with its wild and gusty surges of emotion swelled up in her heart.

Dudley was examining the ground carefully. He straightened suddenly and called to her. "Here is where Swergin stood when he got the drop on Ball."

"Right there," Dona agreed absently.

"His hobnails" cut right into the floor of the cave," Dudley went on.

His flashlight continued to bob along and halted before the fireplace. Dona ceased to watch, losing herself in her own thoughts.

Suddenly Dudley whistled loudly. Dona started and looked across to where he was poking in the fireplace.

"Live coals!" he almost shouted. "I knew that fellow was still hanging around these hills."

Dona sprang up and crossed to his side. Dudley snatched off the flashlight and a half dozen live coals glowed brightly. A sudden icy grip tightened at the girl's heart and she could not take her eyes from the ruddy embers gleaming in the ashes.

SINGAPORE BASE

WORK GOING ACCORDING TO CONTRACT

London, Nov. 30.

In the House of Commons today Mr. Thomas Griffiths inquired of the progress of the Singapore base. Mr. Evan Wallace replied that the work was proceeding in accordance with the recommendations of the Imperial Conference of 1930, namely on the dock fourth wall auxiliary constructional work.

The contract period was seven years and although no section was completed, progress was in accordance with contract.—Reuter.

"How long will it take?"

—said the Buyer

"THAT DEPENDS," said the seller. "If we ship VIA SEATTLE it won't take so long!"

"Ship them VIA SEATTLE, then! The sooner they arrive, the sooner we can sell them!" And the buyer was pleased to learn of the short United States route from the Orient to American markets.

In the future, you may be assured, that buyer will specify the route VIA SEATTLE on his own requisitions. Likewise the shipper on his shipping instructions. And the story quoted above is repeated several hundred times each year, with the natural result of increased tonnage for the modern Port of Seattle.

BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the ninth of a series of articles by Mr. McKenney explaining the one over one system for contract bridge.

The one over one forcing bid is the bid from which the one over one system derives its name, and unfortunately many players are under the impression that if they use this bid they are playing the one over one system.

This, of course, is far from correct. The actual one over one forcing bid is only one bid of a complete system and plays no more important part than many of the other bids used in that system.

The bid is employed in the following manner:

When the original bidder's suit bid of one is passed by an opponent and partner overcalls with another suit bid of one, he is making a one over one forcing bid which shows a biddable suit and, in the majority of cases, 1½ high card tricks.

If the next opponent passes, the original bidder is required to bid again, and while the one over one is an absolute force it makes no promise for game. The original bidder is only required to keep the bidding open once, unless the one over one bidder makes another forcing bid on the next round.

In this manner, the one over one forcing bid differs from jump shift forcing bids which demand that the bidding be kept open until a game is arrived at.

The one over one forcing bid and the jump shift forcing bid might be compared to telephonic or direct communication as compared with postal or indirect communication.

The one over one force keeps the bidding low and is comparable to a telephone conversation—the parties are on both ends of the wire, and by talking back and forth, they are in direct communication and can arrive at a definite decision by exchange of information without too much loss of time—in other words, before the bidding gets too high.

The jump shift forcing bid often forces the bidding too high before partners can intelligently exchange the information necessary to arrive at the correct contract.

The one over one forcing bid takes advantage of a favourable situation. Quite often, when holding a biddable suit and 1½ high card tricks, it is necessary for partner to bid two in order to show his suit; e.g. the original bidder opens with one heart and partner's biddable suit is clubs or diamonds. The bid would now have to be two.

However, if the suit happened to be spades, partner would make a bid of one spade, and therefore the original bidder, with a minimum hand, is given the choice of three declarations, none of which will ever be higher than two.

He may respond: first, with one no trump to inform partner that he has only a four-card suit or a weak five-card suit; he does not have normal support in partner's suit, and therefore is desirous of signing the hand off; second, with a good five-card heart suit and a minimum hand, he can sign off by bidding two hearts; third, with normal support in partner's suit and still a minimum opening bid, he can make a sign-off bid of two spades.

Of course, with additional strength, this can be shown by using one of the forcing bids.

The one over one bidder is now given several choices. If the original bidder's response was one

SMOKING CONDEMNED. CONSIGNEES' NOTICES.

DEBATE AT SAILORS' AND SOLDIERS' HOME

An entertaining debate took place at the Sailors' and Soldiers' Home, Wanchai, last evening, on the motion "That the prevalence of the Smoking Habit is to be deplored." Mr. A. Edwards presided over a large audience.

The Rev. W. Walton Rogers, in proposing the motion, deprecated smoking as an utterly savage and degrading habit which was one of the consequences of the discovery of America (laughter). As to the evil effects of smoking, Mr. Rogers hurled medical dictionaries at his audience and added that although the smoke from the Cement Works in Kowloon was often complained of, the far more prevalent and injurious clouds of smoke from addicts of the tobacco habit were not mentioned (laughter). About the only use of tobacco which the speaker could think of was as an emetic, as demonstrated by Robinson Crusoe on a famous occasion. With great gusto he quoted Butler's "Anatomy of Melancholy" in a reference to "hellish, devilish and damned tobacco." In Turkey the penalty for its use at one time was death; in Russia, knouting; the Methodist Church 100 years ago prohibited its ministers from the use of tobacco, and the prohibition still stood.

The Rev. E. G. Powell, opposing the motion, denied that tobacco could be condemned under any of the dictionary meanings of "deplorable." It was helpful to mind and nerves; it gave a feeling of repose and confidence, thereby improving intellectual work. Tobacco gave a great deal of employment and was a large revenue producer. As most of the tobacco came from America, we were paying our war debts with our breath (laughter). He looked forward to the day when all the nations would smoke the pipe of peace (applause).

Mr. S. Hamer smoked a fat cigar while he declared, in support of the motion, that smoking was a "naughty, dirty, dangerous habit, expenditure on which was non-productive, as it would be better applied to more useful enterprises."

Mr. W. Sprague, speaking forth, entertained the audience with an amusing defence of tobacco, amongst other things as a specific for nagging wives.

The Chairman then invited the audience "if they could find a spare inch of ground not covered" to take a hand, and a number of further entertaining speeches were made. Mr. Rogers finally demolished the "argument" that smoking is a good thing because it prevents giving way to worse habits, by saying "You might as well encourage a murderer to give up murder and go in for theft."

The motion (with the help of penitential votes from addicts) was declared carried by a large majority.

If the original bidder's response was two hearts, partner may now pass, holding a minimum hand, or he may again deny support for the original bidder's suit by bidding either two no trump or two of his own suit, which was spades; if the original bidder's response was two spades, partner may pass if holding a minimum hand.

The one over one forcing bid can be made even when holding normal support in the original bidder's suit, as this suit can be sup-

BRITISH STOCKS FIRMER

SHARP RECOVERY IN LOANS

London, Nov. 30.
The stock markets to-day presented a generally firm appearance.

There was a good investment demand for gilt-edged securities.
Government loans registered a further sharp recovery and finished with advances of nearly two pounds. War Loan Assented was finally quoted at 97 1/2.

In the foreign exchange market, sterling displayed an uncertain tendency at the outset; the opening rate on New York being quoted at 3.16 1/2. Later it rose sharply to 3.20 1/2 and closed at 3.19 1/2.—British Wireless.

INTERNATIONAL AIR FORCE

BEING CONSIDERED BY BRITAIN

London, Nov. 30.
Asked whether the questions involved by the development of an International Air Force, as proposed by the French Government at the Geneva Disarmament Conference, were being considered, the Prime Minister, in the House of Commons, said these and all connected questions were being considered by His Majesty's Ministers.—British Wireless.

SOME DRIZZLE

The Royal Observatory reports that the anticyclone continues to move eastward and is now centred over South Japan. Fresh monsoon will prevail along the south coast of China and over the Northern China Sea. Local forecast:—N.E. winds, fresh, cloudy;
some drizzle.

F. A. CUP REPLAYS

SOUTHEND'S SHOCK FOR EXETER CITY

AMATEURS FAIL

London, Nov. 30.
Southend, Luton, Bristol
Rovers and Gillingham to-day qualified for the second round proper of the F. A. Cup competition, while Bournemouth and Torquay failed once again to settle their tie.

The only surprise result of the replays to-day was the victory of Southend at Exeter. The Sea-siders should have won at the first time of asking on Saturday, but they were certainly not expected to eliminate the strong Exeter side on their own midden.

Other sides who should have made no mistake when playing at home on Saturday, to-day atoned by succeeding in the replays.
Luton scraped home by the odd goal in a keen tussle with Kingstonians, one of the leading Isthmian League sides, while Wycombe Wanderers (winners of the F. A. Amateur Cup two seasons ago) fell before the superior fitness of Gillingham.
Cardiff shaped poorly at East-ville, Bristol, and were defeated by four goals to one.

Results:

F. A. CUP REPLAYS.

Exeter	0	Southend	1
Kingstonians	2	Luton	3
Wycombe W.	2	Gillingham	4
Bournemouth	2	Torquay	2
Bristol R.	4	Cardiff	1

Bournemouth and Torquay played extra time but were still unable to reach a decision.

REVISED DRAW.

Revised draw follows:
Southend v. Scarborough
Bristol R. v. Gillingham
Folkestone v. Newport
Northampton v. Doncaster

STOLE KNITTING MACHINES

TO START HIS OWN FACTORY

Formerly employed at the Ming Nai Knitting Factory, near Taikoktsul, a man named Leung
Wing was charged at the Kowloon Magistracy, before Mr. Butters this morning, with larceny of three knitting machines.

Detective Sergeant Lamont, who prosecuted, stated that the machines were missed some months ago, but the owners could not trace them. A few days ago, the Mongkok police raided defendant's premises and found the missing machines there. After taking the machines, the police alleged, defendant set up a miniature knitting factory of his own.
Sentence of six months' hard labour was passed.
